State Notes to Avert Crisis In Schools

BOARDS TO GET AUTHORITY TO BORROW AGAIN

No Cash Available for Regular Allocation; $51,000 for City Schools Assured.

BANK WILL TAKE NOTES

Loan to Permit Operations Until After First of Year, Arlin Says.

Mansfield and Richland county schools will be able to operate after Dec. 1 and teachers will receive their salaries as usual, it was assured today, when David H. Sutton, state director of school finance, announced he would authorize school boards to borrow against their quarterly allocation of state school funds.

"Boards will be authorized to issue notes for about $12,000,000 on Nov. 30, but there will be no cash distributed," Sutton told The News-Journal today by telephone.

Aids Rural Schools Too.

The distribution will permit the Mansfield schools to borrow about $51,000 and the Richland county rural districts slightly more than that.

The Mansfield Savings Trust National bank, which has handled most of the Mansfield schools' loans, already has said it would take the notes.

Harold W. Arlin, president of the Mansfield school board, said the funds would permit the schools to operate as usual until after the first of the year.

"By that time," he added, "the state legislature may have provided a solution to the finance problem that will enable the schools to operate without interruption the rest of the 1939 term."

Refuse to Await Ruling.

Sutton said Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy had not ruled on the legality of the authorization to borrow, and that E. N. Dietrich, state director of educa-

SURE OF GOAL

Red Cross Workers Conclude Roll Call Tonight.

Although only a little over half the Richland county quota for its Red Cross Roll Call had been reported in this morning, officials of the campaign were confident that when the drive ended tonight the goal of 8,000 members would be topped by a comfortable figure.

Although a little more than 4,000 memberships were reported this morning, neither Shelby, which enrolled 2,100 members last year, nor the majority of the county districts were included in that figure, and many of the larger industries and business places in Mansfield will not be reported until late today.

Both Roy R. Spetka, chairman of the chapter, and W. J. Locke, general chairman of the drive, were confident today that more than 9,000 members will be enrolled in this year's Roll Call and that the chapter will be able to send an "over the top" report to national headquarters in Washington.

GIVE PENSIONS, DAVEY'S APPEAL

Governor Pleads With U. S. to Send November Funds, But Ends Letter With Dig.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Appeal was made by Governor Davey today to A. J. Altmeyer, chairman of the social security board, for November pension grants for 112,000 aged Ohio citizens.

The money which the federal government has been withholding, the governor said, belongs to the state of Ohio. It is collected from the tax payers of Ohio by federal government which, Davey declared, collects "twice as much from the people of this state as it sends back."

The governor added:

"Therefore, I write to ask whether the social security board will send the money that is due the state of Ohio under the federal law. There is not fault enough in the administration of the Ohio division of aid for the aged to fill a small thimble, and I think your investigators know this to be the truth.

"May I call your attention to the fact that there is nothing you can do to hurt me as an individual. However, you have no right to rob the state of Ohio of money that belongs to this state in accordance with the federal law under which you operate.

"I was wondering whether your heart might not soften a little bit as we approach Thanksgiving and whether you might not relent somewhat from the cruel stand that you previously took, especially in view of the bounteous Thanksgiving scene that awaits the members of your board."

CHECK ILLNESS OF 500 PUPILS

Health Officials Probe Strange Intestinal Malady.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—(AP)—Health officials today sought to diagnose a strange intestinal malady which within a week attacked 500 of the 1,400 students in Eastview Junior high school.

Dr. Edward H. Marsh, Westchester county deputy health commissioner, said all the victims were recovering.

Discounting a theory that the illness could have been caused by food eaten in the school cafeteria, Dr. Marsh said several adults also had been stricken although the illness centered at the high school.

Speechless Mt. Vernon Child, 6, Romps With 'Strange Children'

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Six-year-old Annabelle Barton, who never learned to talk, played with a doll and with other children in a hospital here today, trying her best to adjust herself to a new life.

Almost all of Annabelle's life has been spent with her mute mother in her grandmother's home in Mt. Vernon, Ohio. The child learned only a strange sign language of her unmarried mother.

In the hospital, Annabelle will be taught by psychologists to talk. Her deformed legs will be straightened.

Miss Eva Johnson, superintendent of Children's hospital, was enthusiastic over the child's progress and said she was "getting along just fine."

At first, Annabelle was frightened by people. She particularly distrusted men. Now she is happy, waves her hands at everyone. Miss Johnson said she tried desperately to act like other children.

"She watches the way the other children eat and tries to mimic them," Miss Johnson said. "She likes to be hugged and frequently tussles with the other five children in her ward, or the nurses."

Annabelle's mother, mute since she was two years old, visited her in the hospital yesterday. They greeted each other affectionately and conversed in the sign language that other mutes cannot understand.

SEWER SURVEY DEMAND REVIVED

Officials to Put Problem Up to Council as State Sticks to Previous Stand.

Mansfield city council will be called on to make a decision on a comprehensive survey of the city's sewer systems, estimated to cost $12,000, before approval of any proposed improvements can be obtained from the state department of health.

This developed at a meeting of city officials in the office of Mayor Claude M. Hunter last night, at which the "deplorable" condition of Mansfield sewers was discussed.

The group made a recommendation to council asking that a survey be started immediately after Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner said the state department had refused to approve any extensions or improvements in Mansfield sewers until they had "definite assurance" that a survey, looking toward a long-range improvement program would be made.

He pointed out that only yesterday the state department had again turned down plans for several extensions of the system, and added that the same proposal, previously submitted had been rejected for the same reason—lack of a comprehensive program of sewer system improvement.

Dr. Rehder told the group that it was "high time" that something was done about making the survey in order that the city's

OLD-FASHIONED THANKSGIVING ASSURED CITY

First Heavy Snow of Season Lays Blanket of White for Holiday Observance.

STORES, FACTORIES CLOSE

Mansfielders to Offer Thanks at 3 Union Services and at Other Rites.

The first heavy snowfall of the season today laid a blanket over Mansfield for the traditional Thanksgiving observance tomorrow.

Richland county, along with most of Ohio, awakened this morning to find that the unusual season of mild weather and sunshine had ended and that the ground and the trees were blanketed with snow.

The snowfall will continue into the night, with tomorrow clear and colder, the forecast said.

Fight Icy Streets.

Early this morning four city trucks and 12 workmen of the street department swung into action, scattering salt over the downtown streets and slippery corners. D. D. Orewiler, superintendent of streets, said that 20 tons of salt already had been used by noon.

State patrolmen reported that county roads were covered with snow, ranging from two to four inches, and were slippery and treacherous.

Snow began falling during the night and in some places over the state was followed by rain. Temperatures dropped below the freezing point, going to 27 during the night, and had raised only two degrees this noon. A snowfall of two and a half inches was recorded here.

Disastrous results of the storm were reported from Duluth, Minn., where a cargo of 44 new automobiles, valued at $50,000, were swept into the turbulent waters of Lake Superior.

City Closes Shop.

Mansfield will "close up" for its observance of the holiday, with only restaurants and a few places of business remaining open for the day. All federal, state, county and city offices will be closed, as well as schools and the city's industrial plants.

Terrific Gales Keep Queen Mary From Docking.

LONDON —(AP)— Wild November gales battered shipping today and smashed at the shores of Great Britain.

While lifeboats went to the aid of small craft, the liner Queen Mary, which left New York Nov. 18, was unable to land 200 passengers and 1,500 bags of mail at Plymouth and was forced to proceed to Southampton.

The gale caused postponement of the battleship Royal Oak's departure from Portsmouth for Norway to carry home the body of Queen Maud.

Mansfield Doctor and Passenger Hurt As Car Skids.

The first traffic accident of the season in the county attributed to snow occurred early today in Shelby where two persons, one from Mansfield, suffered minor injuries.

The injured were Dr. W. D. Jacoby, 738 Andover road, Mansfield, and Miss Bertha Thurman, Shelby, a passenger in the car. They were treated at the Shelby Memorial hospital for bruises and lacerations.

The car was badly damaged when it slid off the slippery pavement into a tree on a downtown Shelby street.

NEW AGREEMENT RENOUNCES WAR, AWAITS SIGNING

Germany Agrees To Give Up Claims To Alsace-Lorraine In Accord Which Embraces 2 Major Points; New Draft of Military Pact Seen.

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—France and Germany were said officially today to have completed negotiations for a written war renunciation accord.

The signature and publication were expected soon, it was said, but the date was not announced.

The disclosure that an agreement had been reached came as Premier Daladier awaited the arrival of Prime Minister Chamberlain for talks which were expected to result in a virtual military alliance between France and Britain.

An authorized government source said simply that the French-German negotiations had come to a successful conclusion.

It was stated that the agreement would have two major points:

1. Official recognition by both nations of the present French-German frontier, meaning that Germany renounces all claim to Alsace-Lorraine.

2. Agreement for consultation in case of difficulties between the two nations rather than a resort to war.

Meets With Hitler.

It was disclosed that yesterday's exchange of greetings at Berchtesgaden between Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Robert Coulondre, French ambassador to Germany, marked the reaching of an understanding to be embodied in the new written accord. The diplomatic speeches contained the main points to be set forth in writing.

Despite Franco-German understanding the conversations opening today between French statesmen and Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax were expected to draw Britain and France still closer together.

Informed quarters said the meeting, planned as a second step in European appeasement following the "peace of Munich," would be devoted almost entirely to strengthening and co-ordinating the armies, navies and air forces of the two nations.

It was understood the alliance would be brought about through the re-drafting of the military agreement signed last April 29 in London.

The new accord would make instant military aid unconditional, whereas the present pact gives Britain the right to decide in case war resulted from a German attack on France's central European allies.

Military co-operation was listed as the primary subject for discussion today and tomorrow. A plan for mediation of the Spanish Civil war, the question of aiding Germany's persecuted Jews and the situation in the Far East were other important matters to be taken up.

The French cabinet was called to meet with President LeBrun for a final discussion of France's position before the arrival of the British ministers.

Sources close to the government said it was believed the dropping, or at least readjustment, of the French-Soviet pact would be a necessary condition to Britain's automatic guarantee to France.

France's other treaties were seen as presenting little difficulty. Britain has promised to guarantee the new Czechoslovak frontiers in the same manner as France. The French-Polish mutual assistance pact is generally conceded by Frenchmen to have lapsed.

BERLIN: Nazis Fix Levy of 20 Per Cent on Jewish Fortunes

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—The German government ordered a levy of 20 per cent of Jewish fortunes exceeding $2,000 today to pay the $400,000,000 fine imposed for the assassination of Ernst von Rath, Paris embassy secretary, by a Jewish boy.

The decree defining the means of collecting the fine in four installments was published in the official gazette as the German propaganda machine went into full swing with a warning no mercy would be accorded in writing "the last chapter of the Jewish question in Germany."

The levy is to be imposed on German Jews and those who live in Germany but are without citizenship in other countries. Foreign Jewish citizens are exempt.

The decree stipulates:

"A contribution of one billion reichsmarks ($400,000,000) will be collected from German Jews and those Jews without nationality in the form of a tax levy on their fortune.

"Foreign Jews are exempted from the levy.

"The levy will not be imposed if the entire fortune, after deduction of all liabilities, does not exceed 5,000 reichsmarks ($2,000)."

Payments are to be made to the state treasury. Payments by insurance companies to Jews for damage done their shops and synagogues during the Nov. 10 violence, after Von Rath's death, are to be turned over to the government.

These amounts will be accepted as partial payments of the levy. If the insurance payments exceed the 20 per cent levy, however, the entire amount will be confiscated by the government.

WASHINGTON: U. S. Opposed To Return of Colonies to Nazis

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The American government is strongly opposed to the return to Germany by Great Britain and France, of West African colonies seized from the reich at the end of the World war, International News Service learned today.

The American attitude, which has been communicated informally to Britain and France, is understood to be one of the principal reasons for their sudden stiffening attitude against Germany since the Munich debacle.

Two other contributory reasons are cited:

1. Nation-wide resentment in England and France at the Nazi government's anti-Semitic persecutions which have paralleled the "deep shock" of the United States, expressed in President Roosevelt's public denunciation of the Nazis.

2. President Roosevelt's bold warning to aggressors that the United States will accelerate its rearmament program immediately on a scale sufficient to protect the entire western hemisphere against foreign penetration.

In the past few days, Great Britain and France have notified Germany they are opposed to its colonial demands. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain informed the governor of Tanganyika, formerly German East Africa and now a British mandate, that there is no intention of restoring the colony to the reich. The French government has expressed flat opposition to return of any of the colonies.

Germany lost three possessions in this region—the Cameroons, a strip of the Gold Coast and German Southwest Africa, the latter now under the dictates of the Union of South Africa.

American defense experts regard re-possession of these colonies by Germany as a direct menace to the western hemisphere.

Drunken Husband Wrecks Home

One in a Series.

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Beware of the man who drinks.

The drunkard, whom marriage reforms, is almost as rare as the white blackbird. If you're considering this fatal step, don't bank on the legend of drunkards reformed through marriage, even if a trusted friend tells you about someone who never took a drop after the wedding ceremony.

Six Ways To Lose Him, Or Her.

I doubt whether drunkards' wives ever actually reform them. The desire to be free from the handicap of alcohol must come from within. The drinker must realize that he's destroying health, and any chance of success or happiness. He must put on the check-rein himself, though, of course, some women are an immense help.

Chief among the causes of unhappy marriage is over-indulgence in liquor. In its wake comes poverty, a loss of respect, and the transformation of even the kindest men often into brutes.

Of late years, the medical profession regards the drunkard with a more lenient eye. It seems to be agreed that he doesn't drink from pure cussedness. Specialists are apt to blame that tiresome old inferiority complex.

Cures have been known to work miracles, but cures are expensive. They are the luxury of the well-to-do. The United States army will give treatment to soldiers or ex-soldiers who are alcoholics if the men are committed to hospitals for some other disease as well. Uncle Sam generously throws in an alcoholic cure, but he won't accept a soldier, sailor or marine suffering solely from alcoholism.

Children, who are as imitative as parrots, are under a terrific disadvantage, when brought up in a home with heavy drinkers. They want to experience the effect of the thing which is so important to the grownups. They drain glasses, seek little sips from bottles, and it's only a question of time before the habit gets them.

The best result in the way of cures seems to have been effected by farm life with plenty of good plain food, regular hours, and rational amusements. Commissioner Melvin Hazen of Washington, has tried to establish a farm in Virginia for chronic alcoholics, who constantly turn up in the District of Columbia. But unfortunately, up to the present time, this crying need has not been included in any of the alphabetical projects of the U. S. government.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a very lovely mother, but she is so terribly strict that I just have to make a decision which I know will hurt her. I am 21, have a good stenographic position, making enough to support myself and also help out at home. She insists that I come home by ten o'clock, no matter where I am, and you know sometimes that's absolutely impossible, as when I'm at a movie or at a dance.

I'm very much in love with a boy, who has turned against me on account of this and has started going with another girl, who is allowed to use her own judgment as to her time of getting in at night. Now, in order to get to go out, I have to sneak or lose all the boy friends I ever get. I'm so miserable. ESTELLE.

It seems to me that ten o'clock is pretty early for a self-supporting girl of 21 to be required to be home. There are many parents who can't seem to realize that their children are growing up, and that youth is the time in which young people meet, fall in love, marry and make their own homes. Why not talk to your mother, in a gentle manner, telling her that you absolutely must have more freedom.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

The fortuitous chance which traffic had given us kept up its beneficence, and when we arrived at the restaurant, though all of us scanned all four corners of the horizon, we could see no sign of either detective.

A timely word to the head waiter secured us the corner table I had suggested.

"You can relax now," I told my young people. "Nobody can hear you if you talk in ordinary tones."

Bill and Hank heaved simultaneous deep sighs.

"That'll help," Hank said, but Bill waited for an instant before speaking.

"Do you mean you think that man can't find us?" he asked.

"It depends upon how much time he has," I answered, and all three faces turned to me attentively.

"I think I get you, Auntie Madge," Mary said, her face alight with interest. "You think he noted the number of our taxi driver, and now that he has lost track of us, he will hunt up our driver and find out where he had taken us.

"That is the dope," I assured her gravely. Then I looked at my wrist watch.

"Don't you think we'd better begin ordering?" I suggested as a waiter came up to us, and we began consulting the menu.

"It's your night, or rather, afternoon, to howl, boys," Mary told her brothers.

"The shore dinner," I said promptly.

"Make it double," Mary said. "Now, boys, what about you?"

The boys had their heads together over the menu, but Hank looked up at Mary's query.

"We can't find hamburgers on here," he said. "Don't they have 'em here?"

His voice was filled with disappointment so patent that I had hard work keeping my face straight. But Mary made no effort to hide her mocking mirth.

"What do you say, Auntie Madge?" Bill asked after a second. "Isn't it all right to begin with hamburgers?"

"This is your outing," I told him emphatically. "You are to eat whatever dishes you wish. If you want—"

But Mary, already contrite, did not permit me to finish.

"Oh! you darlings!" she exclaimed remorsefully. "Please forgive your old meanie of a sister for teasing you."

She was leaning across the table, her eyes pleading and tender, her face alight with the affection she bears for her orphaned brothers. I saw the hurt, resentful flush fade from their cheeks at her appeal, and saw happiness come back to their eyes.

"How could we be 'mad by you,' Mary?" Bill asked. "We know you didn't mean it. And don't you ever think we're not going to have a lot of other things on this list. You just watch us! But we want our hamburgs first."

"I'll bet old Lucullus, or whatever his name was, is whirling around in his grave like a dervish," Mary said when the waiter had gravely written down the orders and started toward the kitchen.

There was uneasiness beneath her laughter I realized when, a little later, under pretext of fixing her wind-blown coiffure, she took me with her into the powder room.

"Honestly, Auntie Madge won't all that kill them?" she asked.

I laughed comfortably for I knew whereof I spoke, from long experience with adolescent youth.

"It ought to, but it won't," I told her.

"You're such a comfort, Auntie Madge," she signed.

My prediction came true. Their appetites "peterged out" as the meal progressed, and I am sure they welcomed the diversion when Mary said tensely:

"I'm going to drop my handkerchief and ask you, Hank, to come around to this side and pick it up. When you straighten up, look casual-like at the table nearest the door. There's a tall, big man there that appears just a bit out of the ordinary. Maybe he's the one you spotted."

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Nov. 24.

The affairs of this day are under very propitious planetary influences. They should prosper and bring much happiness if they are restricted to the pursuits and avocations of a strictly holiday occasion. These are encouraged by tokens of a high degree of merriment and social festivity, but there is a menace of strange, irregular and unconventional adventures. Shun all crafty, suspicious and intriguing persons and proposals.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves launched in a year in which discretion, high principle, sound sense and vigilance may turn the balance to worthy accomplishments. But beware of plots, shun loans and financial irregularities, and keep the mentality clear of sinister influences and personal eccentricities.

A child born on this day may have a rather contradictory make-up, with a fine nature and much versatility. But it may have certain mental slants that might be lured into sinister, suspicious or questionable activities or subtle dangers.

For Friday, Nov. 25.

Very sudden and surprising developments may descend upon the scene today with a precipitancy that might be almost sensational or spectacular, according to the rather mixed planetary forces. The signs indicate unexpected and probably devastating adventures of an unpredictable nature; they may bring romantic experiences, upheaval, radical change or a complete reversal of life and its interests. Discretion, wise deliberation and sound judgment are recommended in social, emotional and untried situations.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a possibly very dramatic year, with much transpiring of a memorable character. Romance, adventure, change and unexpected events may be precipitated with devastating effect on the fortunes and the destiny. At the source of this may be a bereavement, accident, illness, loss or a visitation demanding an entire reorientation of the interests, especially personal, domestic or social. All call for circumspection and sound consideration rather than whirlwind decisions.

A child born on this day may have rather conflicting traits, with sound ideas, practical habits and methodical attention to details. At the same time, it may have many unorthodox, irregular, unconventional and audacious proclivities. It may have a surprising and thrilling career.

Dandruff Plays Havoc With Hair

By MME. QUI VIVE

There is no reason for falling into a frenzy of anxiety because you find a few stray hairs in the comb. A certain amount of moulting of the brain mat is normally, to be expected. The life of a hair varies from two to seven years.

Why the hair creating machine stops functioning is a question which cannot be answered positively. But hair specialists, when treating falling hair, insist upon health measures—a balanced diet, daily exercise, plenty of sleep. Cleanliness of the scalp is a factor that is important. Massage serves a useful purpose because it acts on the circulatory streams.

* * *

Dandruff has a deplorable effect upon the health of the hair. The sebaceous glands are excited, work too hard, desposit on the scalp more oil than is needed. This oil combines with dead skin scales and forms ugly flakes. It has recently been discovered that certain germs appear causing a fungus growth like yeast. The hair shafts are weakened because such conditions are not normal.

Dandruff never should be lifted from the scalp with the finger nail or a sharp comb. Abrasions may ensue and wherever there is an open wound there is danger of infection. By the frequent use of hot mineral or olive oil the scales can be softened, removed the following day with soap and water and rousing rinsings. If there is an intolerable itching or any sign of infection, a medical man who specializes in skin and scalp diseases should be consulted.

Exposure to sunlight seems to revitalize sick locks, but too much will dull or change the color. Brushing is highly recommended because the bristles give a little tug on the hair roots, stimulate the tiny fibers in which they rest.

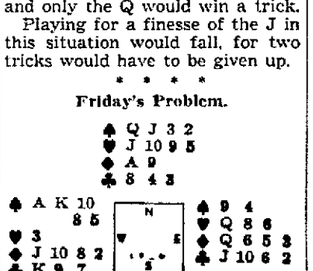
STUDY COMBINATIONS

A PLAYER WHO really cares to improve can learn a lot by studying the various finessing combinations. If he will get out all the cards of a suit, arrange them in different ways and then figure out the best results from various methods of playing them, many facts can be learned which are not apparent at first glance.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable).

South bid 1-Deamond on this deal. North responded with 2-No Trump. South's next call was 4-No Trump, to which North replied with a bid of 5-Diamonds. After 5-No Trump by South, North went to 6-No Trump.

The club J was led by East and won with dummy's K. Declarer could count three tricks each in spades, hearts and clubs, so that he needed three diamonds to make his contract. His problem then was how to limit his loss in that suit to one trick, with the Q, 10 and 8 missing.

He laid down the A and then played low and finessed the 9. The K took the third round and West's Q won the fourth. However, declarer's play enabled him to accomplish his purpose. Even if East held four instead of West, his play was the safest, for if West showed out, the K could have been played and only the Q would win a trick.

Playing for a finesse of the J in this situation would fail, for two tricks would have to be given up.

Dress-Up for Waffles, New Salad Hint

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Salient social season suggestions are welcome right now when there is much entertaining to be done. So here we go!

The next time you serve waffles to your guests and want to dress 'em up a bit (waffles, not guests!), add some finely-ground nut meats to the syrup. Heat the syrup first, add nuts and serve hot on buttered waffles.

Date ice cream in patty shells is sure to be relished. The ice cream is put on patty shells, then topped with meringue and lightly ovenbrowned. The shells may be bought ready-made or made at home, or pastry shells may be used. For the filling, mix together two tablespons flour, one-half cup sugar and one-eighth teaspoon salt; add gradually one cup scalded milk, stirring till smooth paste is formed. Cook over hot water until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Pour this mixture over two slightly-beaten eggs; cook over hot water for one minute. Strain. Add two cups finely-cut dates and one quart thin cream. Cool. Add one cup strained orange juice and three tablespoons lemon juice. Freeze.

Red, Green Salad.

A red and green salad adds a gay touch to festive menus. Snowy cooked white rice forms the basis. Combine two cups cooked rice with one cup cooked or canned peas, four tablespoons each chopped pimento and pickle relish, three tablespoons grated cheese, teaspoon salt and three tablespoons celery. Serve on crisp lettuce with French dressing or mayonnaise.

A cool, frozen punch, flavored with orange pekoe tea, makes a refresher that is both novel and nice. Make it this way to be sure that it is smooth and free from grains. Pour a quart of boiling water over one-half cup dry tea and let leaves infuse, stirring a little until the desired strength is obtained (about three to five minutes). Add two-thirds cup light corn syrup, and one-quarter cup lemon juice, also grated rind of one-half lemon. If desired, add six drops clove extract. Freeze in mechanical refrigerator in equal parts of ice and salt.

Ice-Box Cake.

An ice-box cake does its bit to sweeten any proceeding. Try this one, made with one-half cup butter, one and one-quarter cups confectioner's sugar, three egg yolks, two and one-half tablespoons strong, freshly-brewed coffee, and 12 large lady fingers. Cream butter, add sugar and egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add coffee gradually, beating well. Place a layer of nine lady finger halves on a platter, flatside up, and spread with the coffee mixture. Arrange another layer of six lady fingers, placed lengthwise on top, and spread with mixture, then a third layer, crosswise. Cover top and side with remainder of mixture. Chill in refrigerator several hours. Slice to serve. It makes eight servings.

Book of the Week

"COUNT BELISARIUS,"
By Robert Graves, Random: $3).

* * *

BY THIS time Robert Graves has probably discovered that even if he wanted to do something besides fictionize history, he would not be permitted the liberty. Graves is now what the publishing world calls a "property," which is, being elucidated, a gentleman so well known for his exploits in a particular field that he can be relied upon to sell a given minimum of each book. He is a standard article, of value.

Hence "Count Belisarius," Graves' latest. It is, for this reader, far more amusing as a book than either of the Claudius books. Belisarius is a better chief character, more sympathetic or else better presented. Antonina and her girl friend Theodora, as well as a hundred subsidiary characters, are more nearly actual, and far more interesting as people than most of the Claudius cluster.

And the story of Belisarius' unconventional and exerting life is a good story, even though Graves' almost pathological fear of direct narrative slows up the telling unnecessarily. This time the narrator is a eunich in the service of the strumpet Belisarius married; doubtless Graves feels that putting the story into this particular mouth gives him an unsual angle from which to see the events, and a certain freedom in the writing. It impresses us exactly the other way.

There is not room for even a cursory synopsis of the story itself. But it is possible to say what its chief virtue seems to be—and that is Mr. Graves' gift for taking bygone times in his stride. He does not look at the fifth and sixth centuries, A. D., as through a literary telescope. Instead he lives in them for a time. The details of the life he accepts as fact, and not as curiosities. The Greens and the Blues, which are the factions in and about Constantinople most important in the story, he treats much as he might treat the Democratic and Republican parties in a novel of today. And the odd emotional and sexual emphasized for pornographic purposes, or viewed from beneath raised brows.

These things are merely accepted, and that is what makes "Count Belisarius" so readable.—By J. S.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

N. Y. Investigators Call for Re-enactment of New York Garage Death Scene.

(By International News Service)

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. — Re-enactment of the strange "automobile gas" death of Eugene Y. Burckhalter, 47-year-old chemical manufacturer, was to be staged this afternoon in the office of the district attorney here.

The dead man's widow, Mrs. Marie Burckhalter, 44, will be brought over from Eastview penitentiary, four miles away, to the county building for the re-enactment. She is being held in $10,000 bail after having admitted, according to the authorities, that she helped her husband to commit suicide by gas in the family garage at Hastings-on-Hudson last Saturday.

Chairs Become 'Auto'

Instead of an automobile chairs will be set up in the district attorney's office so the widow can indicate various phases of the strange occurrence of Saturday afternoon. The vacuum cleaner hose used in the automobile suicide will be utilized in the re-enactment.

Mrs. Burckhalter was in a "highly nervous" condition today, following the hours of questioning to which she has been subjected.

The authorities also planned to again question her friend, Melvin Kittel, 38, a salesman, who is being held as a material witness.

Dr. Amos O. Squire, Westchester county medical examiner, informed International News Service this afternoon that he has not yet determined whether the death of Burckhalter was a suicide or a homicide.

Elbert T. Gallagher, assistant district attorney in charge of the investigation, declared he still was not satisfied with the widow's story, adding "this case is wide open."

Woman's Fistic Prowess Brings Threat of Prison

Mrs. Elizabeth Harfman, Wooster road, East Mansfield, was warned by Judge G E Kalbfleisch in municipal court this morning that any future display of her fistic prowess over the matter of her property line would result in a workhouse term.

Convicted on a charge of assault and battery, Mrs Harfman was given a suspended 60-day jail sentence and a $50 fine on condition of her future good behavior. She was assessed the costs of $7 30.

Charges were filed by Harry E Hoffman, a next door neighbor who testified that the woman "slapped" him during an argument over a fence separating their properties.

Mrs. Harfman's son who was seated in the courtroom, came to the defense of his mother during the hearing, informing the court that if "something wasn't done" to keep Hoffman from fighting with his mother over the property line that he would "tangle" with him himself

Judge Kalbfleisch reprimanded the youth and told him he couldn't take the law in his own hands and that if he did he would also "go to the workhouse."

PWA CRITICISM BY ROOSEVELT STIRS GEORGIA

President, at Warm Springs, Says State Won't Get Any More Federal Aid.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga.—President Roosevelt's arraignment of Georgia for seeking federal aid for public works without setting up legal enabling machinery caused somewhat of a stir in state official and political circles today.

Coming from the chief executive's own "other home" in Georgia, at a press conference late yesterday, it overshadowed interest here in announcement that Hugh R. Wilson, ambassador to Berlin, would arrive Sunday or Monday to report on German violence against Jews.

Some observers attempted to read politics in the presidential statement that Georgia was the only state in the union which had failed to co-operate with the federal government on public works and would not receive another red cent until it had set up enabling acts.

May See Senator.

There was not the slightest hint of this in official circles, however. Moreover, there were reports that Senator Walter F. George, conservative Democrat whom Mr. Roosevelt sought unsuccessfully to defeat, might come here for a chat during the president's two weeks stay.

First reaction to the president's Georgia attack came from state Sen. Paul Lindsay of Atlanta, a leader in the group that obtained federal aid for a state prison in Tattnall county and a state insane hospital at Milledgeville through indirect loans, to circumvent the state constitutional ban against borrowing.

Lindsay expressed belief enabling legislation could be accomplished without a constitutional amendment and that a bill would be introduced in the legislature convening Jan. 9 to permit the state to issue revenue certificates against anticipated revenues from self-liquidating projects, a practice he said already was authorized for counties and cities.

The president said the federal government had become softhearted in making the indirect loans for the prison and asylum because it wanted to see the state get its share of PWA money.

HIGHER MARGIN GIVEN RELIEF DIRECTORS

Dixon Says 12 Per Cent Figure Too Low, Will Allow More, Urge Law Change.

Richland county's administrative costs along with other counties in the state which last month were above the state maximum of 12 per cent were upheld today by State Relief Director William Dixon.

Despite the legal 12 per cent maximum, Dixon said he would permit a 15 per cent maximum this month and that he would recommend that Governor-Elect John W. Bricker and the next General Assembly amend the law in that respect.

He declared that administrative costs in only 37 of Ohio's 88 counties were less than 15 per cent last month and that until the legislature acts he will consider 15 per cent a proper limitation.

83 Over 12 Per Cent.

Dixon said that a survey of 83 counties showed expenditures in excess of 12 per cent mainly because of surplus commodity distribution and WPA certification.

This bears out the statement made last month by City Relief Director J. Verne Finney, whose administrative expense here was listed at 13 83, and who was warned at that time to reduce the amount to within the limitations or run the risk of losing state funds.

Finney at that time said the administrative costs could not be kept down to the permitted 12 per cent because of the expense involved in compiling records for the state

Dixon said that members of the legislature that fixed the 12 per cent limit did not know that the extra duties would be delegated to the county agencies.

BUCYRUS—Mrs. Dorothy Raymond, widow of Gerald Raymond, who died of burns received in an explosion at his home near Nevada early Monday, was dismissed from City hospital Tuesday. Mrs. Raymond received badly burned hands when she attempted to extinguish the flames of her husband's clothing.

Two Held, Charged With Plot Against Movie Actress

FAKE ACCIDENT LEADS TO JAIL FOR 'VICTIM'

Justice Dismisses Genevieve Tobin After Hearing on Mishap 'Injuries.'

(By United Press)

HOLLYWOOD—Two men were jailed today charge with plotting against movie actress Genevieve Tobin.

They were Martin L. Riley, a WPA employe, and his brother-in-law, Paul C. DeLong. A district attorney's investigator charged them with "suspicion of perjury."

Riley had had Miss Tobin arrested on a charge of reckless driving, alleging that she had knocked him down with her automobile and had fled the scene of the accident. DeLong supported his story. Miss Tobin denied she had had an accident of any sort.

Justice of the Peace C. D. Holland heard the charges yesterday, and, after listening to the sworn testimony of Riley and DeLong, said:

"I don't believe Miss Tobin was even in an accident. It looks to me these men have made her the victim of a plot."

Both Under Arrest.

After he had dismissed the charge and had adjourned his court, the investigator stepped out of the audience and arrested both.

Convictions in traffic courts often lead to civil suits for damages.

The district attorney's office confronted Riley with six sets of papers he had signed with insurance companies involving "accidents" in the last two years, and he acknowledged that he had been the claimant involved in each one.

In one "accident" he was paid $111 on the allegation that he had suffered a "general shake-up" in a bus mishap. On another occasion, he claimed to have tripped on a match folder on a theater aisle, wrenching his shoulder. If he was paid damages, it was not listed.

"I am now satisfied," said Deputy District Attorney Pat McCormick, "that there is not a word of truth in the allegations of these two witnesses about this accident."

Westinghouse Sees Business Upturn In Proclamation

A Thanksgiving proclamation issued to employes and stockholders of the Westinghouse company today declared that a general upturn in business was expected in a relatively short time.

"The future looks brighter," the proclamation says. "Although there is no definite upturn in the amount of business being placed on the books of the company, it is confidently expected that improvements will be noticed in a relatively short time."

This is the third year that Westinghouse has issued a Thanksgiving proclamation to its employes and stockholders. Copies were posted on bulletin boards throughout the plant here as well as the 21 other factories of the firm and distributed by mail to 45,000 stockholders.

Among the reasons for giving thanks, the proclamation says, that 42,806 employes are on the company's payrolls and that stockholders have received "substantial dividends during 1938."

Up and Down THE STREET

Observers think it's just about a tie—Louis Bromfield's memory and the memories of the Mansfield people he used to know. Lunching at the Mansfield-Leland yesterday, he met a lot of friends of the other days — and remembered the names of ALMOST all of them, although he had a little trouble in the case of women who had married since he last saw them. And there weren't many who knew the author back in the old days who didn't recognize him, either.

At the rate William Nye, of 375 Wayne street, brings down game on his hunting trips, it doesn't take him long to bag the limit. Nye reports shooting two rabbits with one shot while hunting south of Bucyrus in Crawford county, and he can produce a witness to prove his statement. Both rabbits were running away from him, about three feet apart, when he brought them down, he said. "Of course it was an accident, but nevertheless it happened," he adds.

Don Maglott, a youngster who peddles papers every morning at Park avenue west and Walnut street, pranced in the cold and snow this morning—he was happy and thankful. "One of my regular customers just gave me a 10-pound turkey for Thanksgiving," he said. "I don't know his name—but, gee, he's a swell guy."

The old story of the pupil who brought his teacher an apple has been given a new twist at Senior High school. One of the students went hunting the other day and apparently had pretty good luck. At any rate, he brought a rabbit, cleaned and dressed, to school and gave it to one of his favorite teachers. She stored it in the cafeteria refrigerator and later enjoyed a feast.

Three unexpected memberships were enrolled in the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross yesterday when Louis Bromfield, the author, appeared at the Roll Call office in the Richland Trust building and took out memberships for himself, his wife, and his secretary, George Hawkins. Two other memberships were from a man and his wife who live in Denver, Colo. He travels most of the time and stopped off here to enroll in the Red Cross when he saw the big flag floating over Park avenue west.

CAN'T CONTROL BEER PERMITS

Leonard Says State Already Has Reached 'Saturation Point' for Retailers.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The state board of liquor control continued today a two-day open hearing after one of its members declared that at least one feature of the state law was "making drys out of wets."

Wellington T. Leonard, former Mansfielder, asserted yesterday that the board was unable under the present statute to control the number of beer retail permits, added that 27,000 such licenses had been issued and declared that in his opinion, "the saturation point has been reached.'

Leonard said that recurrent complaint received by the board concerned noisy beer establishments in residential sections.

"I think beer places should be centralized in the business areas," he declared. "A further restriction of the number of permits that can be issued, too, would be to the interest of everybody."

Under the present system, he said, all beer permits were issued by the liquor director. Only appeals could be taken to the board.

Lowell C. Bodey, chairman of the board, expressed a desire to discuss with the new state administration possible changes in the control act.

The hearing, first of a group to be held over the state, was intended to give citizens an opportunity to criticize administration of the law. Other meetings will be held in Toledo Dec. 1, Cincinnati Dec. 8 and Dayton Dec. 13.

32-HOUR WEEK ASKED AT PLANT

UAW Makes Demand On Fisher Body Company.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—A 32-hour work week today was asked by members of the United Automobile Workers employed in the Fisher Body plant of General Motors corporation here.

The shorter week was requested in a conference between a union committee, headed by Charles Beckman, local president, and plant officials. It was referred to the U. A. W. international headquarters and General Motors main offices in Detroit.

Beckman explained the union feared many members, laid off nearly 11 months, would lose seniority rights, and the shorter week would make it possible for these workers to be re-employed.

C. OF C. MEMBERS ASKED TO VOTE ON 15-POINT PROGRAM FOR 1939

A tentative 15-point program for 1939 was in the hands of Chamber of Commerce members today.

The program was mailed to members in the form of a questionnaire asking them to vote on each point of the outlined plans as a guide for the board of directors in drafting next year's platform.

Members are asked to vote yes or no on each point and whether they consider them of primary or secondary importance.

The tentative outline calls for continued work towards the rehabilitation of the present water system and continued study of the city manager form of government for Mansfield.

Other proposals are:

Work for reduction of fire insurance rates by seeking additional fire protection facilities and by conducting educational fire prevention campaign; seek improvement of railway passenger stations in the city; efficiency and economy in the city, state and national governments; develop a program designed to improve and enlarge the Mansfield park system; study of the possibilities of establishing a Better Business bureau; additional recreational activities for the city.

Carrying on activities to expand the Mansfield trading area; extend efforts to secure new industries for Mansfield; work to safeguard the interests of existing industries and continuing activities designed to protect members against soliciting and promotional schemes.

The increases, retroactive to Nov. 16, will affect the employes who were changed last month from a per day rate to a monthly salary rate.

In Richland county, the increases will affect a project engineer, instrument men, chain men, and rod men, according to Boyd Wierman, resident county engineer.

Increases for the project engineer will be from $180 to $190 a month; instrument men, $170 to $180; chain men, $200 to $212.50, and rod men, $195 to $205.

PROGRAM WOULD TRAIN PILOTS FOR WARTIME

Seeks to Enlarge Reserve Force to Exceed German, Italian Programs.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Congress may be asked to lend financial aid to a plan for creating a large army of civilian fliers to bolster any air rearmament program advanced by President Roosevelt.

Organized efforts to build up such a flier reserve, like those in Germany and Italy and to a lesser extent in Great Britain, to insure an adequate number of pilots in a national emergency, have been given impetus by the president's hint Nov. 15 that the air forces might be expanded.

The army air corps has surveyed the possibility of increasing its pilot-power by instituting aeronautical courses at land grant colleges.

Develops Own Plan.

The civil aeronautics authority, which supplanted the old bureau of air commerce last August, apparently is developing its own plan to encourage private flying.

"We have no mandate to militarize civil aviation," Edward J. Noble, authority chairman, said in a recent address. "Turning the aim of the airplane from economic to military use is a matter for military experts. But we can at least give them the material to be expert with."

He advocated such an increase in private flying that the nation would have 250,000 civilian airplanes in daily use. Currently it has about 10,000

Germany's standing air force a year ago was estimated to contain no fewer than 110,000 men. How many were pilots and how many technicians was not determined. The United States army and navy combined have about 4,400 regular and reserve pilots on active duty.

The national aeronautic association suggests indirect government help in training students by paying instructors from aviation authority funds and establishing WPA financed soaring camps similar to that at Elmira, N. Y.

APPEARS IN CITY

M-G-M Theater on Wheels to Stop Here Friday.

The grandchild of the famous "Trackless Train" which visited Mansfield 13 years ago when Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studio sent it on a globe-circling tour out of Hollywood, comes to Mansfield Friday afternoon.

It is the new Theater-On-Wheels which left the studio last August on a world tour. Marionettes resembling the Metro stars —Norma Shearer, Tyrone Power, John Barrymore and others—are presented in scenes from M-G-M pictures. A sound track from the original films is run off at the same time so that the marionettes appear to talk with the real voices of the stars.

The original "Trackless Train" first appeared in 1925 and in 1933 its successor, the Traveling Studio was sent out on a world tour, and now, the "third generation" is the Theater-On-Wheels. It will give a half hour's performance on Park avenue west in front of the Madison theater starting at 2:10 p. m. Friday.

FAIR ENOUGH!

U. S. Should Brand Los Angeles Incompetent — Name Guardian For City

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—It is hereby earnestly proposed that the U. S. A. would be much better off if that big, sprawling, incoherent, shapeless, slobbering civic idiot in the family of American communities, the city of Los Angeles, could be declared incompetent and placed in charge of a guardian like any individual mental defective. It is only a wistful thought, but the futility of hoping that this wise step might be taken just adds emphasis to the nuisance.

Los Angeles is the source and home of more political, economic and religious idiocy than all the rest of the country together and a concentration point of shiftless and inefficient culls who, being too lazy or lacking the ability to make good in their native regions, drift in expecting to be fed from heaven or the public pantry.

* * *

San Francisco, a city of character and manhood, has suffered greatly from the coolie competition of a rival having neither intelligence nor standards and is the first victim of the infantile giant to the south. The rest of the nation, however, has had to contend with the Townsend plan and the $30-every-Thursday scheme, and the influence of other absurdities emanating from Los Angeles has been as bad.

The courts are notorious for the silly conduct of clowns in silk, and adolescent jurors who condone premeditated murder and let killers loose, because they bawl about love and the religious travesties which thrive in this atmosphere, have mocked sense and piety for years.

Nowhere but in Los Angeles could Upton Sinclair, admitting his inability to conduct his own enterprises successfully, have gathered the nucleus of a following which seriously threatened an important state with an economic hallucination described by one of his trusted lieutenants as the revolving of wheels within wheels.

This was the plan by which a man with an old windmill who needed a pair of shoes and two pounds of stew meat traded the windmill to the owner of a gravel pit who traded gravel to a man building a concrete silo who gave him a calf whose hide became shoes on the feet and whose sinews became stew in the pot of the man whose necessities began the chain of transactions.

This, however, was a brief and simplified example of the commerce that was to have been imposed on California had the spirit of Los Angeles been elected

* * *

In other cases the transformation of the second-hand windmill into shoes and stew would have ranged from end to end of the vast state — peaches for pork chops, mop handles for chewing gum, an axle for a saxophone lesson, and so forth, until hundreds of men had struck trades with others who miraculously happened to need exactly what was offered, and vice versa, and suddenly all settled down to the enjoyment of the things they needed most.

But Mr. Sinclair's plan was a model of practical distribution by comparison with the fantasies of others which have originated in Los Angeles, at least one of which, according to its author, who ran for congress, came to him in thundered tones from an unseen speaker, believed to have been God, as he sat waiting his turn to expound his wisdom in a church.

Up to that moment he had never known anything about money or economics, but, when a minute later, he was called upon to speak the ideal plan had been revealed to him out of the air, as he said, perfect in all its details.

* * *

Los Angeles is a region, not a city, with limits extended far beyond the practical ability of even a good city administration to govern, and extended for evil motives —not legitimate civic ambition. The town stretched to take in useless, worthless real estate, owned by foresighted grafters, and to advance the lines of defense against efforts to organize labor.

But neither the size of the place nor the incoherence of its government accounts for the lunacy which is characteristic of the place and for which it is known above every other characteristic. Nobody has been able to explain why Los Angeles is peculiarly susceptible to absurdities in all fields, particularly those of the mind and soul, and the solution seems hardly worth the bother. It is like trying to determine why a crazy man is crazy, but with a difference.

The difference is that the crazy man is recognized to be nuts and is placed under glass, whereas Los Angeles enjoys the rights and freedom of normal communities and sometimes half-convinces people elsewhere there is nothing peculiar about cutting paper dolls.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Sometimes fate is kind in Hollywood. Sometimes the lightning of world news strikes at exactly the proper moment. Sometimes—but not often—Hollywood is ready with a picture that has anticipated the lightning.

It has just happened. One Sunday night a good portion of the American population is scared out of its wits by a fantastic broadcast. Mars attacks the world (in radio fiction) and the results make newspaper headlines. And before the week is out, a picture hits the market — "Mars Attacks the World."

And Barney Sarecky, a diminutive, cheerful chap whose producing activities are confined mostly to the Universal back lot where serials flourish endlessly, becomes the studio's man of the hour.

Barney will claim no genius, no prophetic foresight, for his feat. It just happened. He was making a serial about Mars, some months ago, and he had some fancy sets. Economy is a major interest in a serial producer's mind, and Sarecky did not want to see his fancy sets wasted. He shot enough material for a feature in addition to his chapter-play.

Came the broadcast — and I think Sarecky and Universal must be grateful indeed to Orson Welles. Darryl Zanuck, with his fondness for headline-prompted themes, might tackle a Martian story now—but Sarecky and the U have one ready for showing while the "news from Mars" is hot.

* * *

It has happened before, but never so spectacularly.

Mervyn LeRoy had it happen, but almost in reverse. He had been preparing a script for his new star for months, and Ferdinand Gravet was already being filmed in "The King and the Chorus Girl" when King Edward VIII decided to become the Duke of Windsor for the sake of an American who, though not a chorus girl, was still a commoner. For a time, it looked as if the headline lightning had struck LeRoy favorably—but then Hollywood discreetly put a taboo on king-and-commoner themes. The British Empire, it was known, would not appreciate a dramatization of a royal crisis vitally affecting it, and the British market is important. LeRoy got by—and probably the picture gained by the news break—but it might just as easily, have boomeranged.

"Alcatraz," thanks to the happy coincidence of a prison break on that island, became a movie best-seller—outgrossing some of the studio's "A" films and emphasizing, incidentally, the importance of the lowly "B's."

* * *

One night a man named Dillinger went into a movie theater and, on leaving, met the fate that was his due. The last movie he saw, appropriately a gangster film named "Manhattan Melodrama," found new box-office life as the picture which "nabbed Dillinger." This was a "natural."

So was an unpretentious little programmer called "Spy Ring," made with no thought that, six weeks after its release, it would collide in the news with the arrest of those being tried for espionage. The words—spy ring—fit readily into headlines. "Spy Ring" came back on its own power—another example of the luck that movie producers — and press agents — dream about.

New high school loop looms

Canton's behind movement

Does Ohio need more help?

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

A NEW high school athletic league involving Mansfield, Canton, Massillon and Sandusky may eventually be organized, it was learned from an authoritative source this week.

Athletic officials of Canton McKinley are reported to be behind the movement to form the four-school circuit. Formal announcement of plans to organize is being delayed until Sandusky, which recently withdrew from the Buckeye league, is contacted, we understand.

Canton has left a vacancy on its 1939 schedule for Sandusky, it is reported, and if the Blue Streaks accept the date, organization plans will be pushed.

Whether Sandusky and Massillon would be favorable to the proposed set-up is not known, but Mansfield athletic officials indicated today that they would consider a bid to affiliate with a circuit made up of the schools mentioned.

Mansfield, Massillon and Canton are already scheduled for games in basketball as well as football, and if the other two schools can arrange series with Sandusky, the organization of the league would be a mere formality.

Despite the fact that it withdrew from the Buckeye league because of a lack of competition, Sandusky has not indicated that it has aspirations to launch rivalries with such prominent football schools as Canton and Massillon.

Maybe Ohio State Has Too Much Material.

OHIO high schools have been contributing too many football players to colleges outside of the state to suit Francis Schmidt, Ohio State coach. Three times this season, Schmidt's team has been confronted by Ohio-bred boys in enemy raiments, and they didn't allow their loyalty to this state interfere with the business of trying to beat the Buckeyes.

Three Ohio boys appeared in the Michigan lineup against Ohio State, two played with Purdue in the Boilermakers' victory and three wore Indiana livery.

It was only last fall in a talk in Cleveland that Schmidt said that Ohio State needed Ohio high school products, and intimated that it was up to the school's alumni groups to steer them toward Columbus.

Schmidt has a good argument in his favor, we agree, but high school gridders who want to continue their football careers in college are possibly inclined to look in directions other than Ohio State where they have a better chance of playing.

Ohio State is crowded with football candidates. In fact, there are so many outstanding high school performers on the Columbus campus right now that we doubt whether Schmidt knows who are his best players.

It doesn't necessarily follow that all of the material is first-class but the flow of material to Columbus is so heavy that it must be difficult to select the best 11 of 22 players.

It is evident in the free manner in which Schmidt substitutes that there is some question in his mind just who are his best ball players.

The chances of a football player getting an opportunity to play steadily at State are meager. Frequent substitutions not only have a tendency to discourage players but affect a team's play as well.

In every game we've witnessed at Ohio State, Schmidt has never kept a combination together more than a few minutes. Backfield substitutions have been particularly frequent.

Realizing that their chances to play with amount of regularity are limited, Ohio high school boys go elsewhere where they are assured of plenty of action if they make the grade.

Take the case of Paul Kromer of Michigan, a Lorain boy, for instance. Kromer, although just a sophomore, played 54 minutes in the Ohio State game last week, coming out only after Michigan had the victory cinched.

If he had been wearing an Ohio State uniform, Kromer would have been fortunate to have played half of the game, if, indeed, he was in more than a few minutes.

Individual competition may be the life of a football team, but perhaps there is such a thing as too much competition.

In the second period, Boswane and Logan ran 40 and 45 yards, respectively, for touchdowns. They each added an extra point to give the All-Stars a 33 to 0 lead at the half.

Good Taste
need not be expensive
The popularity of Royal Bourbon is a matter of open record—it is one of Ohio's biggest sellers. It takes more than an attractive price to hold that prestige. Royal Bourbon is indeed a choice whisky—its quality held high, while its price, because of tremendous volume, has been kept low. A good buy in good taste.

Kansas State Gets Nod, Too

Associated Press Expert Also Picks Missouri, Texas Aggies and Western Reserve to Triumph.

By HERBERT W. BARKER

NEW YORK—(AP)—With a final, groggy salute to the football season this gridiron guesser takes a bird's eye, long-range, possibly astigmatic, view of future proceedings and offers the following strictly unguaranteed "predictions":

THANKSGIVING DAY—PENN-CORNELL: The spot for Cornell to clinch the Ivy league championship and the Big Red, featuring one of the nation's most powerful lines, ought to make the grade safely. Cornell.

TENNESSEE-KENTUCKY: Tennessee's Volunteers should have no particular worries here even though history shows Kentucky teams have engineered some amazing upsets in the course of this rivalry. Tennessee.

BROWN-COLUMBIA: It's hard to believe that Columbia can have any more hard luck. The hunch here is on Columbia, after a high-scoring duel.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA-U. C. L. A.: Possibly the toughest one of the slate to figure. The coin says Southern California.

ALABAMA-VANDERBILT: Another eenie-meenie affair. We'll take Alabama power over Vanderbilt football trickery.

MISSISSIPPI STATE-MISSISSIPPI: The signs point to Mississippi.

MANHATTAN - VILLANOVA. The nod must go to Villanova.

NEBRASKA-KANSAS STATE: This ballot for Kansas State expresses doubt that Nebraska's improvement has been rapid enough to bring the Cornhuskers through.

MISSOURI-KANSAS: Missouri.

NORTH CAROLINA STATE-CARNEGIE: Picking Carnegie.

TEXAS-TEXAS A. & M.: No rest for weary Texas. The Aggies.

VIRGINIA-NORTH CAROLINA: North Carolina.

CLEMSON-FURMAN: Stringing along with Clemson.

MARYLAND-WASHINGTON & LEE: Flipping the coin, W. & L.

WESTERN RESERVE OVER CASE.

* * *

SATURDAY, NOV. 26

ARMY-NAVY: Two good rugged teams collide here although each has been beaten twice. On their comparative performances against Notre Dame plus the Cadets' brilliant showing against Princeton last week, the ballot goes to Army.

DUKE-PITTSBURGH: A vital game for Duke's unbeaten, untied, unscored-on Blue Devils. Nevertheless, the customary vote is cast for Pitt on the theory that Goldberg, Cassiano and Stebbins will generate enough power to pull the Panthers through.

SOUTHERN METHODIST-TEXAS CHRISTIAN: The southwest title hangs on the outcome. T. C. U. has overpowered all opposition so far, S. M. U. is undefeated within the conference. The nod goes to Christian.

STANFORD - DARTMOUTH: It's a long trip but we'll take Dartmouth.

LOUISIANA STATE-TULANE: Out of the hat, Tulane.

GEORGIA-GEORGIA TECH: Tech looks better.

BAYLOR-RICE: A pure guess, Baylor.

BOSTON COLLEGE-HOLY CROSS: Probably close. Holy Cross.

FORDHAM-NEW YORK UNIVERSITY: Close but take Fordham.

Notre Dame over Southern California. Tennessee over Mississippi. Southern Methodist over Rice.

Hume, Not Huston, Ram's Chief Rival

Don Huston of Toledo Libbey is not the most serious contender for the Ohio scholastic individual scoring lead held by Gene Harmon of Madison, it was learned today.

Hillis Hume of Alliance, who is only 14 points behind Harmon, has one more game to play. Alliance plays Salem Thursday. Huston is 26 points behind Harmon, who has scored 146 points to hold a one point lead over Carl Grate of Greenfield.

PLAY TURKEY DAY

The Forest Gardens and East End All-Stars will meet in a football game at the Taylor-Dise field at 2 p. m. Thursday.

FLOOD CONTROL PROJECT OPENS

100 Men at Work as $131,000 County-Wide WPA Program Gets Under Way.

Nearly 100 men were at work today on the Gray-Hagenbaugh ditch north of Mansfield as the county launched its $131,500 WPA flood control project.

About 100 others will be given jobs under the county-wide program within the next 10 days as the project is extended to other sections of the county, Deputy County Engineer Walter E. Rusk said.

Ten ditches are included in the program, and Ritter's run and Touby's run in Mansfield will be dredged, provided the city can furnish its share of the sponsor's cost.

The program is designed, Rusk said, to replace the county's million dollar road and bridge program which will be discontinued during the winter.

The ditch project is under the supervision of Harold Hursh, while Harry Aley of Butler is chief timekeeper.

THEATERS

FOUR of Mansfield's five movie houses will show new bills on Thanksgiving, the Majestic changing its policy for this week only in order to present a new show on the holiday. The Ohio, Madison and Park will also have all new bills, while the Ritz retains the show that opens there today.

* * *

"Angels With Dirty Faces."

James Cagney is back in the type of role in which he first rode to stardom in "Angels With Dirty Faces," and though to make up for his many "good guy" roles, the current character is even tougher than "Public Enemy No. 1," the star's first big gangster role. The story is a dramatic one of the kind of boys that are products of slum districts, and supporting Cagney are the "Dead End" kids. Pat O'Brien is co-starred in the film which is booked for the Ohio.

* * *

"Submarine Patrol."

Richard Greene, the handsome lad from Plymouth, England, who made a hit as the youngest son in "Four Men and a Prayer," is given a leading role in "Submarine Patrol," which the Madison will show the last half of the week, a dramatic story of a rich man's son who joined the "splinter fleet" branch of the submarine service during the war, because it promised a soft berth. Nancy Kelly, Preston Foster, George Bancroft and Slim Summerville are in the cast.

* * *

"Affairs of Annabel."

Lucille Ball, one of the up and coming gals among filmdom's newcomers, and Jack Oakie will be starred in a new series of pictures entitled "The Affairs of Annabel." Each picture will be a complete story, revolving around a film star who indulges in publicity stunts to popularize her pictures. The first picture of the series will be shown tomorrow at the Park. The second feature will be Frank Fay in "Meet the Mayor."

* * *

Horror's Offsprings.

Offspring of two old horror films are grouped on the Majestic bill for the last half of the week, starting Thursday. The theater will show "Bride of Frankenstein," with Boris Karloff and Elsa Lanchester, which was made as a sequel to "Frankenstein" and "Dracula's Daughter," with Otto Kruger, Marguerite Churchill and Gloria Holden. Both films have been reissued recently.

* * *

Famous Dance Spot.

"Cocoanut Grove" takes its name from the famous dine and dance spot in Hollywood, and has to do with the fortunes of a dance band which makes its way across country in a bus in order to get a job at the night spot. The trials that befall them and their romances make an interesting plot on which to hang some good musical numbers, and the sweet songs of Harriet Hilliard. Fred MacMurray is starred in this Ritz feature. "Prison Farm" also is on the bill.

6 YEARS LATE

New York Woman Gets Easter Greeting Dated 1932

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—(AP)—It was "Happy Easter" six years too late for Miss Katherine Weisenborn. She received a card recently from a friend in New York. It was postmarked March 16, 1932, and was received in the Rochester postoffice only a few days ago.

GEE - ABOUT EVERYBODY IN TOWN WHO COUNTS—OR THINKS HE DOES - OR WOULD LIKE TO BE IMPORTANT, HAS BEEN HERE TODAY TO CALL - AREN'T YOU TIRED?
NO - NOT A BIT, ANNIE - HA! HA! IT'S RATHER STIMULATING TO BE SO POPULAR - 11-23-38
YES - ME - OLD ABIGAIL - POPULAR - AFTER THIRTY YEARS - YOU SEE, ANNIE, ONE HAS QUITE A LOT OF TIME TO THINK IN THIRTY YEARS---ESPECIALLY, WHEN ONE IS ALONE MOST OF THE TIME -
I HOPE I'VE NOT BECOME BITTER, OR TOO CYNICAL - I'D RATHER HOPE THAT I'VE MERELY LEARNED TO SEE CLEARLY - I LIKE MY TOWNSPEOPLE - THEY MEAN WELL - I CAN'T BLAME THEM FOR LEAVING ME PRETTY WELL ALONE FOR THIRTY YEARS -
A PAUPER CAN BE POOR COMPANY--- OF COURSE ALL THAT IS PAST NOW---BEST FORGOTTEN--- EXCEPT ONE THING I LEARNED WELL DURING THOSE THIRTY YEARS---WHO MY FEW REAL FRIENDS ARE---THAT I'LL NEVER FORGET -

SLUGS HIS CAR

Motorist Angered by Failure to Start Swings Right.

FRANKFORT, Ky.—(AP)—When a man with a badly-lacerated, bloody right hand came to his office, Dr. Tom Leonard, Frankfort physician, asked several questions to learn whether a police report would be necessary.

Shamefacedly, the patient said: "I hate to tell you. My car choked on top of the hill and I got out to crank it. The thing wouldn't start and I got so all-fired mad at it I socked it in the eye. I poked my fist through the headlight."

PRICES MIXED IN PRE-HOLIDAY STOCK SESSION

Copper Shares Perk Up on News of Tighter Restrictions on Production.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market drifted into almost complete inertia today, leaving prices bogged in a narrow range.

Quiet seemed to have been emphasized by the withdrawal of traders from the dealings for the Thanksgiving holiday.

In bonds and commodities, speculation also marked time. Prices were mixed and little changed on the whole.

Tending higher were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Anaconda, Kennecott, International Harvester and American Telephone. Leaning toward the downside were Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Boeing and Consolidated Edison.

Copper shares perked up on news the International Copper Control had decided to tighten restrictions on production again after taking the lid off recently.

Weekly carloading figures of individual roads pointed to a greater-than-seasonal gain in railroad traffic, anaylsts reported.

The Edison Electric institute's totals on power consumption last week also expanded more than was expected for the period.

150 LEFT DEAD BY AVALANCHES

West Indies Residents Told to Vacate 64-Mile Area; New Slides Feared.

(By Associated Press)

CASTRIES, St. Lucia, British West Indies—Rescue workers today struggled through a welter of mud and water to remove dead and injured left by landslides which for two days have devastated rain-soaked sections of this mountainous island.

It was feared 150 persons had been killed and hundreds injured.

Apprehensive of new avalanches, authorities ordered all inhabitants to leave 64 square miles in St. Lucia's heavily forested interior where the slides caused the heaviest damage.

Two hamlets were buried late Monday and new slides yesterday added to the toll, burying at least 50 bodies which had been recovered.

One mountain appeared to have split in half, one mass toppling into the valley so fast that few had time to escape.

One area of seven acres was covered 20 feet deep with a coating of clay slime.

Abnormal rains which have continued for almost three weeks were blamed for the avalanches, but some islanders reported loud detonations accompanied the landslides and suggested they might be of volcanic origin.

SEWER SURVEY DEMAND REVIVED

Officials to Put Problem Up to Council as State Sticks to Previous Stand.

He described the condition of Mansfield's sewer system as "deplorable" and that sanitary sewer lines now connected with storm sewers and creeks within the corporation caused the storm sewers to "reek to the high heavens."

He said that the state health department had at intervals since 1932 requested the city to make the survey so that they would have proper maps in their offices with which to approve any improvements in the system.

City Engineer W C. Statler pointed out that the preliminary survey had been started and was 30 per cent completed but would not be finished for several months.

He explained that the antiquated system which had long since served its usefulness was badly in need of trunk lines. The last improvement of this type, he said, was made 38 years ago.

A. M. Mock, city engineer in charge of the Woodland water project, explained that the city had three steps in the survey to consider, the first of which was now being done by the engineering department.

He said the survey asked by the state department consisted of maps showing existing lines, maps showing present needs and a third set of maps showing future needs.

He said the state department had no definite assurance that the survey was to be made although the preliminary work was under way.

It was suggested that city council give some assurance by setting up some plan of procedure

Mock suggested three separate plans involving ultimate expenditure of $12,000, but which he said could be started with a $500 appropriation.

He told the group they could employ a consulting firm to make the survey, could have the city engineer and a staff of WPA engineers compile the data, or could have the consulting firm and a special engineer and WPA engineers do the job.

As the first step toward eliminating improper sewer connections, board of health members last night said they would consider amending the city plumbing code to extend the powers of plumbing inspectors to cover all installations

It is expected that the amendment will come before the city health board at its December meeting

PLAYERS LOOK FOR SALE OF 500 SEASON TICKETS FOR FIRST SHOW

With the announcement that reservation of tickets for the Community Players' production, "The Queen's Husband" opens at 9 a m. Friday at the Mansfield-Leland ballroom, a last minute rush for season tickets was underway today and it is believed that more than 500 will have been sold when all workers make their final reports.

The Sherwood Anderson play, a comedy of smart dialog with a touch of satire in its situations, is the first production of the Players for the season and has a cast made up almost entirely of new faces. The curtain is scheduled for 8:15 p. m. Tuesday at Senior High school auditorium.

The second play selected for the season is "Night Must Fall," the weird play in which a young man's mania for murder is the theme. It was made as a movie with Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell and was listed as one of the better pictures of the year. The third play has not been definitely decided upon but "Accent On Youth," which has been popular with amateur and high school players for several years, is being considered.

Scout Chief Shot But Gets 2 Birds 2 Rabbits Anyway

Being peppered with a load of buckshot doesn't stop Floyd Dent, area scout executive, from hunting.

Dent returned home last night from a hunting trip near Tiffin with two pheasants and two rabbits, but before the day was half over he had to go to Mercy hospital in Tiffin to have 18 pieces of shot removed from his face and body. He was on duty this morning in his office as usual, telling of his trip.

Dent was shot yesterday morning after he had bagged one pheasant, and after going to the hospital where the shot was removed from his body, he returned to the same field in the afternoon and shot another pheasant and two rabbits

The accident occurred just as Dent came over a hill An unidentified hunter shot at a bird as it flew in front of Dent. Five of the shot lodged in his face. Other pieces were removed from his hands, chest, arms and legs.

Dent, asserting his wounds were insignificant, said it was the sixth time he had been shot Dent was the guest of Scott King of Tiffin on the trip.

U. S. PREPARES TO 'CRACK DOWN' ON WAGE-HOUR LAW VIOLATORS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The "honeymoon" is over for the wage-hour administration, exactly a month after the broad labor standards law went into effect.

Amplifying his press conference statement that the time had come to "crack down" on violators, Administrator Elmer F. Andrews said today in an interview

"We can't let the chiselers get away with their practices any longer."

While operation of the wage-hour program was getting under way, Andrews deliberately withheld action on complaints. He said he wanted to give interstate industry an opportunity to adjust itself to the new 25-cents-an-hour minimum wage and the maximum work week of 44 hours.

He issued interpretations and regulations to guide companies uncertain whether they came under the law or were in an exempted category But now he considers the period of grace at an end, and is ready to start prosecution of violators.

The 48-year-old Andrews, customarily placid, used forceful language as he lolled on the big red davenport in his office and discussed the law's provision that the courts must rule finally on violations

"Apparently, congress thought that industry might feel safer in the hands of the courts than the administrator," he said.

"It would have been much easier for the administrator if we had been given clearer powers. It would have been much easier, for example, if congress in the first place had defined the 'area of production' (which is exempt from the act).

"I'd be reluctant to recommend changes in the law—and we would not even be thinking about it were it not for the fact that it requires us to make suggestions for improvements."

"The number of violators reported thus far has been smaller than I expected," Andrews said.

NOTES TO AVERT SCHOOL CRISIS

tion, had withdrawn his request for an opinion.

"We are going to go ahead and authorize the notes, anyway," Sutton asserted.

He added that cash to retire the remaining half of the notes authorized in September probably would be distributed to school boards, "about Jan. 15." Mansfield schools still have about $25,000 outstanding in notes.

"The $12,000,000 certification next week will increase the state school foundation deficit to $17,679,000, but that debt will be reduced somewhat by funds that will be received during December," Sutton said.

Had the notes not been authorized, Mansfield schools would have been forced to close after Dec. 1, or issue bonds to provide operating funds, Supt. W. L. Miller said.

Arlin at Conference.

Arlin, Mansfield board president and member of a state citizens' committee on school finances, was in Columbus last night to confer with bankers, heads of oil companies and leaders in highway and farm organizations on proposed solutions to the state school financing problem.

Arlin said the citizens' committee, named several weeks ago by the Ohio Education association, will make specific recommendations to the state legislature for possible sources for school finances.

When the legislature will meet was still a question today, with Gov. Martin L. Davey silent on any plan he may have to call a special session in December to consider school financing.

With Arlin in Columbus yesterday was Supt. Miller of the Mansfield schools who requested an opinion from state PWA authorities on the legality of a recommendation that union labor be given preference on the two new junior high school projects in Mansfield.

The Mansfield Building Trades council had asked the board to include the recommendation in specifications for the two $450,000 buildings to be erected in the city next year.

18,000 PROTEST DALADIER ORDER

Defiant Metal Workers Strike Because of New Decrees.

PARIS —(AP)— Eighteen thousand metal workers occupied factories around Valenciennes and Lille today in defiance of Premier Daladier's order against occupational strikes.

The strike was expected to force a showdown test on the government's power to enforce new decree laws.

Although Daladier had ordered all stay-in strikers ejected from plants, no effort was made at once to combat the new movement. Officials said insufficient police were available.

NEW LEAGUE OF NATIONS PLAN TO BE STUDIED

Pan American Delegates to Weigh Proposal Submitted by Columbia, Dominican.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Close ties between American republics at a time when totalitarian states are pressing new territorial claims will provide an important subject for consideration at the Pan-American conference next month. This article discusses a proposal for a Pan-American League of Nations.)

By ANDRUE BERDING

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Nearly 20 years after Woodrow Wilson saw his League of Nations dream shattered, the United States again will discuss its participation in a League of Nations—this time a Pan American one.

A proposal by Colombia and the Dominican Republic for a League of American nations will be before the Pan American conference at Lima opening Dec. 9 to which Secretary of State Hull will take an American delegation.

A western hemisphere league is a hardy perennial which from time to time lifts its head at Pan American meetings, but this time there seems less danger that its head will be lopped off.

In the past, the bigger nations of this hemisphere have been cool toward the American League because they were placed on the same level with the smaller countries. Many Latin American nations were also devoted members of the League of Nations at Geneva and could not conscientiously see their way clear to a double allegiance.

Gets Greater Chance.

But since the last Pan American conference at Montevideo five years ago many events have occurred which give a league of American nations project greater chance for acceptance.

Some of the smaller Latin American nations have witnessed an appreciable development that renders them fitter associates for their large neighbors.

The devotion of Latin American nations to the Geneva league has diminished noticeably. The last five years has seen the departure from the league of many Latin American countries. These include Chile, Venezuela, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Honduras, Salvador, Paraguay, Brazil and Costa Rica.

Now only 11 of the 21 American Republics are active members of the Geneva assembly.

The Geneva league has lost much of its prestige since the Montevideo conference. Its failure to quash the Italo-Ethiopian conflict and to take effective action in the Spanish civil war or the Sino-Jap war; the resignation of Germany, Japan and Italy; the settlement of major European problems by direct negotiation or by such meetings as the four-power Munich conference, and the settlement of western hemisphere problems by mediation of the nations of this hemisphere—as in the case of the peace between Bolivia and Paraguay—all have served to whittle down the authoritay of the league in the eyes of Latin America.

Consequently there is more reluctance on the part of western hemisphere nations to regard a league of American nations as invading the premises of the Geneva League.

Moreover, the brusque actions being taken by the totalitarian states in various parts of the world —by Germany and Italy in Europe and Africa, by Japan in Asia—may influence the Pan American nations in drawing closer together into some form of association.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

The mountain folk of our south, especially Tennessee and Kentucky, are interesting people, and there are quite a few stories about them for young people.

May Justus, who also wrote "Honey Jane" and "Other Side of the Mountain" has a new book which she calls "THE HOUSE IN NO-END HOLLOW". It, too, is about the Kentucky mountains and tells of 14-year-old Becky, her struggle to keep her family together, and her desire for an education.

Other books of this type, are: "Down, Down The Mountain," by Credle; "Mountain Girl," "Mountain Girl Comes Home", and "Lona of Hollybush Creek," all by Fox; and "Here-to-Yonder Girl".

How NOT to Carve Thanksgiving Turkey – In Four Lessons

Mr. Charles Ruggles, the screen comedian, begins the attack with a butcher knife in one hand, a heavy two-pronged fork in the other and a sad look in his eye.

After the first few minutes of carving, Mr. Ruggles has sliced off a piece of white meat and is about to rip apart the bird. You'll note he has his coat off even at this stage.

This job turns out to be tougher than expected. The turk has oozed off onto the clean tablecloth, splattering the juice hither and yon. Mr. Ruggles, bewildered, holds up a drumstick in victory.

Well, it isn't every one who can carve a turkey, avers Mr. Ruggles, who seems to have made a mess of the whole thing. He'll take a ham sandwich, if you don't mind.

BRITON INVENTS ENGINE THAT REALLY 'OPERATES ON NOTHING'

(By International News Service)

LONDON—In a garden shed in the little Buckinghamshire village Lane End, an engine that "runs on nothing" has been invented.

For thirty years the inventor, Alfred Carr, has been working in a lean-to shed attached to his tiny bungalow in the Chiltern Hills, perfecting this machine.

As a young man he watched workmen building an iron fence between brick walls outside a village factory. During the following summer, he saw one of the walls collapse before the irresistible pressure of the expanding metal.

The power of the expanding iron impressed him. He pondered over it for many days.

"If one could get several different metals all expanding and contracting to work one against the other a terrific power could be created" he told himself. "Couldn't that be used in some way?"

Tod yain the small gloomy shed amongst his fruit and winter onions, International News Service saw the answer to this question.

The machine is no bigger than a typewriter. It consists of a central cylinder, with three pistons, one inside the other, and two flywheels one on each side. It is mounted on a pedestal about three feet high, with a little door at the base.

"There are metals inside and there are some rather delicate adjustments of parts there," Carr said, "I've been compelled to work to as little as a ten-thousandth of an inch.

He lighted a blow-lamp and put the flame inside the door. About four minutes later he swung one of the flywheels and the pistons began to move slowly. As the engine gathered speed he took the blow-lamp away.

The tiny engine kept on running with no sound of explosion, no steam or fume, just the rhythmic click of the moving parts.

"Heat circulates at the bottom and cold water at the top," he explained, "between the heat and the cold are metals, expanding and contracting. There you have the principle. The use of it is my secret."

Asked how long the engine would run if well warmed up, Carr replied, "I've had it running for as long as four days. I warmed it up on a Saturday morning and without being heated again it ran until the following Tuesday.

AUTHOR SHOWS VERSATILITY BY BOOK OF VERSE

Marjorie Hillis' 'Work Ends at Nightfall' on Library's List of Additions.

Marjorie Hillis, who won a legion of readers with her "Live Alone and Like It," displays her literary versatility by writing her latest book in verse. It is "Work Ends At Nightfall," and is a lighter echo of Edna St. Vincent Millay's "Conversation At Midnight." While the verse is not so varied nor so musical, it makes a clever vehicle for Miss Hillis's portrayal of seven business women. The book is among the new non-fiction volumes of the Public library this week.

Their thoughts about themselves as well as their various opinions of one another are revealed to the reader while the ladies are gathered for a dinner party.

Another distinguished woman writer has written of women also. Gertrude Atherton's "Con Woben Be Gentlemen?" defends and depicts the modern woman. An ardent suffragist, she wittily discusses equality of sexes, giving historical background of the struggle for dominance by one or the other.

"Running the Gauntlet" by George Mossop contains the exciting and dramatic memoirs of a man who as a young English boy went big game hunting in the Transvaal 50 years ago. In a party of Boers, he mastered their high skill in riding and shooting and he also observed pioneer Africa.

Other Non-Fiction.

Other non-fiction this week at the library includes:

"Investments and Investment Policy" by Burtchett; "Market Place," Noyes; "Heating, Ventilating and Air-Conditioning Fundamentals," Severns "Air Conditioning In the Home," Torok; "Incredible Land," Woon; "Mein Kampf," Hitler; "House of Guise," Sedgwick; "George Westinghouse," American Society of Mechanical Engineers; "Oil Painting of Today," Bury; "Ernest Haskell," Pousette-Dart; "Gardens and Gardening, 1938;" "Early Architecture of Delaware," Bennett; "Our Country, Our People, and Theirs," Tracy; "My Double Life," Sullivan.

William Blake's "The World Is Mine" attempts to portray a modern Count of Monte Cristo, a Spanish don, who as a young man sets out to make a fortune in order to wreak vengeance on enemies of four young people dear to him. Don Pinzon becomes a combination of capitalist and anarchist, hoping to gain the first position in order to further his purpose in establishing the second. The author's experience on Wall Street has fitted him to write capably of financial transactions but in this first novel characters seem a bit wooden as though they were puppets on a string.

The 1939 "Anthology of the Verse Writers' Guild of Ohio," presented to the library by Helen Loomis Linham, Mansfield poetry writer, is published by an organization that was started in 1928 and now has 100 members. It promotes the writing of original verse and the study of other poets and their writings.

New fiction volume this week, in addition to "The World Is Mine" includes "Hath Not the Potter," by Maxence Van Der Meersch is a Goncourt prize novel which deals with human beings seeking fulfillment; "Roots In the Sky," by Sidney Meller; "John" by Baird; "Third Hour," Household; "Cut Direct," Tilton; "Barley Fields," Nathan.

DIG FOR GOLD

Helena Business Men Have 'Profitable' Hobby.

HELENA, Mont.—(AP)— Outside of working hours two Helena businessmen, father and son, have become gold miners with their "diggings" inside the city limits.

The two, Dean Kranich, clerk in the federal district court, and his father, George, are sinking a shaft in their backyard. They intend to dig until they strike granite, estimated to be 125 feet below the surface.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, worried, or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much acid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach acids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

All Frontiers are Fickle

Frontiers have always blustered and fought back—and then given lavish treasures to those who would not be bullied . . . by the threatened danger of today or the fear of tomorrow.

No condition of life is constant and each new change is a frontier—baffling to some . . . a welcome challenge to others. Today's frontiers say to the timid, "It can't be done"—then they give splendid rewards in fields of science, business, agriculture and transportation to those with the pioneer's grit.

The opportunities and prizes that America offers us all today—as yesterday—fill people of other nations with envy. Small wonder they fire Americans with ambition!

No Thanksgiving Without Faith.

MILLIONS in America will join tomorrow in some form of observance of Thanksgiving.

Many will remember—but some may forget—that Thanksgiving day is rooted in faith in God and belief in divine intervention in the affairs of mankind.

In these times of stress and suffering in many countries, with denial of religious freedom extending to the point of attempting to abolish God, it is particularly appropriate that all people in the United States should set aside a day for serious contemplation of the causes of the fanatical tyranny and savage intolerance now rampant in some other parts of the world, so that there may be greater appreciation of the blessings enjoyed by the 130,000,000 people who live under the American flag.

There are troubles of various kinds in this country, of course, and many people are inclined to be dissatisfied with existing conditions. But this dissatisfaction can be attributed largely to internal maladjustments, rather than comparison with conditions in other countries, for nowhere else in the world is there such freedom of individual action or such widespread distribution of life's comforts and blessings as are enjoyed in the United States.

Here we have freedom protected by the Constitution and by courts; the right to worship in accord with the dictates of conscience, to join unions, lodges and clubs and to elect officials in an orderly way by expression of majority preference.

Public and private schools provide educational facilities for almost 25,000,000 young people, with books on every subject open to them and newspapers free to express views and openly discuss all subjects and issues of public interest.

In his annual Thanksgiving day proclamation President Roosevelt said:

"In our deepest natures, in our very souls, we, like all mankind since earliest origin, turn to God in time of trouble and in time of happiness.

"For the blessings which have been ours during the present year we have ample cause to be thankful . . .

"In the time of our fortune it is fitting that we offer prayers for unfortunate people in other lands who are in dire distress at this, our thanksgiving season.

"Let us remember them in our families and our churches when we offer our thanks to Almighty God. May we, by our way of living, merit the continuance of His goodness."

Nations, or their rulers, have tried before to get along without God—and failed. Hitler, and his Nazi cohorts, are trying it again—and will fail.

The God to whom thanks will be given tomorrow is an eternal force in the affairs of nations and men. Hitler, and those like him, are mere pitiful puppets who have a little while to play their inglorious parts before their black records become trivial incidents in the history of world progress.

Some Hope For Mankind.

A WRITER, thoroughly discouraged by things that are amiss in this supposedly civilized era, decides that man is not capable of using his own inventions wisely.

He finds the radio debased to low forms of entertainment. The airplane is used to rain death and destruction on helpless human beings, and to destroy churches and homes, schools and hospitals. Medical science makes wonderful progress in healing and strengthening human bodies, but chemistry provides the means of blowing them to pieces. The automobile is hardly a blessing while it is the instrument of injury or sudden death to many thousands every year.

This is truly a dreadful picture, but one-sided. Much cheap and trashy stuff issues from the radio day after day, but that is not all. Music and drama of good quality are there, too, symphony concerts, grand opera, and so on. There are also intelligent round tables and forums for the discussion of present-day problems, in which different viewpoints are expressed with complete freedom.

The airplane, in addition to providing swift transportation for people and freight, has carried the sick to hospitals and food and medicines to storm-bound people. For every poison gas produced by chemistry, far more good and useful things have been given to man. The automobile's ghastly toll of human life is being reduced by safety work, while cars add increasingly to human pleasure and comfort.

Pioneering By Air.

SKYWAYS are now more important than highways in the economic and industrial development of Alaska, says Governor John W. Troy in his annual report to the secretary of the interior. Today Alaska has 109 landing fields and seven seaplane floats. A fleet of 155 modern airplanes, many of them equipped with two-way radios, operate on regularly scheduled routes. The rising demand for passenger and freight facilities can be met only by establishment of more and larger airfields.

The governor would like to see, also, regularly scheduled flights between Alaska and the main body of the United States.

Highways and rails for motor and rail transportation are useful and will no doubt be further developed as Alaska needs them. But the airplane can penetrate remote sections without waiting for these improvements. It can save time in places where the old ground travel is slow, tedious and uncomfortable.

The Farmer Saves Himself.

A NEWSPAPER recently made this wise comment: "One of the questions which is most frequently asked these days is 'Can the government help business?' For the best answer to that we must look to agriculture. For as long as we can remember, politicians have been rushing to the aid of the farmer. For as long as we can remember, the farmer, if he was saved from recurring difficulties, has had to save himself."

The history of farm relief, as this intimates, is very largely a history of costly political failure. Farmers have made definite progress through their own efforts. When they have depended upon political panaceas, they have usually found that they have followed a will-o'-the-wisp.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—By comparison with the holiday rush atmosphere around the White House, the president's Thanksgiving holiday at Warm Springs is as placid as a midsummer Sunday on a farm.

Quiet is what the president wants when he goes there, and he gets it. The town of Warm Springs, on the railroad, consists of a small hotel, a station, and a cluster of homes. Two miles away is the "foundation" where infantile paralysis victims are treated. It is supported largely by profits of the president's birthday balls.

About three miles southward on Pine mountain, is the president's home, the "little White House." It is approached along a winding pine-studded road. A few other cottages, occupied by patients, are along side the road but none nearer than a half mile. At that point the presidential guard begins.

The guard around the president's home is in the hands of marines, about 70 of whom are detailed to Warm Springs during the chief executive's visit. They patrol a circuit entirely around the place. Little sentry boxes shelter the marines in bad weather. There is a ceremony each evening as the guard detail is changed.

* * *

House Not Pretentious.

THE president's house, located on a southerly slope, it not pretentious. All on one floor are three bedrooms, one large combination living and dining room, a reception room and kitchen.

At the rear, on the uphill side nearest the Warm Springs foundation, is a combination sunporch and patio much enjoyed by the president. A separate building provides quarters for servants.

The president drives about the place in his own car in good weather. In bad weather the dirt roads about the place are likely to be muddy and difficult. Each morning he drives to the "foundation" for his warm-water swim.

There are two outdoor swimming pools at the "foundation." One is semi-public and the other, glassed in, is preferred by the president. There he swims and exercises much as he does in the White House pool in Washington.

The administration building is the center of activity. A dining room occupies one wing of the building and across the street is a small chapel.

* * *

Stairways Taboo.

THE country is sparsely wooded, mostly pines. Among them are scattered 200 or more cottages for private patients there at their own expense. Stairways and steps are for the most part taboo and sloping concrete paths, more easily negotiated by the patients, lead to the cottages.

The president often drives to his 1,000-acre farm about six miles from the foundation. Two times a week he drives by two cottages which are occupied by newspapermen during his stay there. There he holds informal roadside press conferences. Two times a week there are picture shows.

The president has few callers at Warm Springs, but members of his staff are present to assist with work he always takes along. Mrs. Roosevelt usually has Thanksgiving dinner there with the president but not often stays for the full 10 days or more.

* * *

Double Duty Howard.

MOST impressive to casual visitors who stay at the town of Warm Springs is Howard, the negro man-of-all-jobs in the hotel. In a white jacket he takes customers orders. Entering the kitchen he shouts out to the cook such things as "Two steaks, medium." But Howard is the cook. Inside, beyond the view of customers, he snatches off his jacket and prepares the orders. The jacket goes on again and he serves. He has another jacket, a darker one, when he has a portering task to do.

The dining room is roofed with tin. Guests occasionally hear a mouse galloping across it. Down there, however, they call them Georgia Foxes.

Timely Editorial

America's Advance in Health.

Everybody is in favor of better health conditions, but it is important to keep in mind as discussion of a new national health program continues that political or bureaucratic control is not essential to those better conditions.

The chief and sufficient reason is that marked improvement in public health, in medical and hospital facilities has been brought about in this country without such control. The fact is that, in many respects, America is well ahead of various other nations in this form of progress—particularly nations in which state medicine has been established.

Various problems of health remain. Included especially is the problem of paying for the best in medical and hospital service. Into that, as into other features of the situation, local and state medical and hospital agencies now are going with the chances of marked achievement. This activity points the safe way forward. — Kansas City Times.

Oppose Return of German Colonies

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Hitler's actions since the Munich conference which partially dismembered Czechoslovakia have cost the Reich return of those of her former colonies held now by Great Britain and France. This is the almost unanimous opinion of the diplomatic corps here, though of course no individual is speaking for quotation.

It is common knowledge in diplomatic circles that Prime Minister Chamberlain promised Hitler that the question of the return of the German colonies would be promptly taken up. It is common knowledge also that this was really the intention, in perfect good faith, of the British government. The knowledge is not nearly so definite, but certainly the impression in diplomatic circles in London, Paris and Washington was that France also would restore the German colonies.

This was not only the intention, so far as the British government was concerned, but practical steps were under way. For example, a very considerable government activity, which had been planned for years in one of these former German, now British, colonies in South Africa and was about to be started, was abandoned shortly after Munich. Those concerned were simply told that the government was no longer interested.

No definite step backward in this program has been recorded since the recent Jewish outrages, but there has been an obvious political change, resulting from the temper of the people. Both British and French spokesmen have reassured critics, promising that there would be no restoration of colonies.

* * *

THE argument is now being made that to turn a colony over to Germany would result in the same fate for the Jews living there that befell the Jews who were living in Sudetenland, Catholics and certain other denominations have joined in the fear that their own co-religionists would suffer if Germany were given sovereignty again over these overseas territories. But far transcending the effects of any of these groups is the national indignation that has welled up in Britain and France, surpassing any wave of world indignation since the Armenian massacres of more than 40 years ago.

The German situation will also result in tremendous pressure in the next session of congress for relaxation of the present immigration restrictions so as to permit persecuted Jews and others from Germany, Austria and Sudetenland to enter the United States. It will be contended that the United States always was a sanctity for the politically and religiously oppressed, and should again function in that way in this world crisis.

* * *

WHETHER this will succeed or not is not definitely known, cannot be until after congress has convened in January. If Congress were in session right now, the fever heat of indignation of the country might sweep it to prompt action. Whether this fever heat will continue until January is something else again. Nobody can tell that.

The fight will be made, regardless of whether more outrages continue to keep the public stirred up or not. What is really important is whether public opinion at the time congress passes on the proposal is sufficient to ride over the known opposition to any such move.

The line of thought that produced the present immigration restrictions is still existent. At the time the curb was imposed, it had the powerful backing of labor organizations, which did not want more immigrants coming in to compete for jobs. These and other motives still exist, but might not be very vocal if the country should be, in January, in the same state of sympathy for the persecuted that it is today.

The Test of Faith.

Editor News-Journal:

Intolerance, persecution, aggression and brutality are evils we cannot ignore. Thus everything beautiful and sacred in democracy is threatened. For the ethics of liberty, our forefathers fought, bled and died for on the battlefields of the Revolutionary war are being immolated on the pagan altars of atheistic materialism, yet everything spiritually and morally inviolate depends on freedom of democracies.

Civilization can only survive as free governments survive. Perhaps, the greatest crisis of all times is impending. Humanity seems to be moving fast to a social, economic, political impasse.

Totalitarian ideology is developing the menace of authoritarian power. Mass sentiment seems to be sinking to a low level of the atheistic material complex with the loss of reverential attitude in regard to things sacred. The low value of life and human rights seems utterly tragic. In the pagan ages, we find ignorance and superstition, excusable causes for aggression and brutality; but what can we say in this age of enlightenment in regard to man-made misery of today? Yet, hope still encourages us. In faith, we see something beautiful, elevating and sacred in human behavior. The spiritual and moral still sweeten life.

The moral courage and fortitude of men and women in the cause of morality, mercy and freedom, stand vivid and inspiring. And, consecrated to the divinity of mercy service, the Red Cross stands, a fitting, living memorial to the supreme sacrifice on Calvary.

Listen, World!

Savages and Cynics Much Alike.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

IT'S SO EASY to doubt—and so fashionable! The world is filled with Smarty Doubters and Sneerers. In five minutes they can convince you that there's nothing good in nobody nohow! Never was 'n' never will be.

God? Pooh! God's just a silly fable which men have made to comfort their loneliness.

Love? There's really no love. That's just a fancy name for our own selfishness. We only "love" those things which are part of ourselves — which we cherish as part of ourselves.

Honor? What hocey! "Every man has his price."

Justice? Don't make me laugh! "It's for those with a bankroll."

So the cynics prattle on, thinking what Bright Boys they are, and getting many an admiring hand. And you listen, with your sad heart sinking lower and lower.

For what hope is there for you, in your wretchedness and bewilderment, if there is no God to hear your little prayer—no human love to stand by you through the long, dark night—no justice or honor to lean on in the great cruel world? Yet, surely these scoffing men and women with their brilliant minds must be right.

But they're not, my dear. Doubting is no proof of a brilliant mind. It is merely the proof of a stupid, frightened mind.

The best doubters in the world are savages. A Zulu doubts everything outside the narrow range of his own experience; scoffs at anything new. And he can put up quite as convincing an argument as the most sophisticated cynic—and along exactly the same lines. Life seems as ugly and heartless to the savage as it does to the cynic. He, too, can produce a thousand reasons to prove that man is the helpless victim of malicious forces.

But when you hear a savage say these things, you say, "He's just a poor, ignorant creature. He doesn't know what life is all about. His ideas are the reflection of his own fear, his own hate. He has no imagination. He doesn't dream that there is a beautiful, brave, kindly world outside his dark and blood-bespattered jungle.

You say that when a naked savage, with a ring in his nose, grunts and gibbers and grins at "white man magic." But when a famous intellectual in evening dress arises in a smart drawing room and tells you that there is no God, or when you read that same intellectual's grunts, groans and gibberings as set down in a $5 volume, you swallow it hook, bait and sinker.

Silly you!

The only difference between that Intellectual and the Jungle Savage is that one wears pants and a gardenia and the other wears war paint and a nose ring. Otherwise their viewpoint, and their value to society, are identical.

But isn't the world filled with cruelty and crookedness?

It certainly is.

And aren't there countless tragedies which seem to prove that there is no God; or, if there is, that He doesn't care what happens to you and me?

There certainly are.

BUT FOR EVERY PROOF OF UGLINESS THERE ARE A SCORE OF PROOFS OF BEAUTY. FOR EVERY EVIDENCE THAT THERE ISN'T A SUPREME INTELLIGENCE BEHIND OUR LINES, THERE IS BOUNDLESS, BEAUTIFUL EVIDENCE THAT THERE IS.

Look through a test tube at a drop of water. Examine a rose petal. Watch a mother's eyes as she comes out of the agony of travail and sees her baby for the first time. Read the history of the heroic Father Damien, giving his life in service to the lepers; of gentle Edith Cavell facing a firing squad that she might aid those caught within the helf of war. Then doubt, if you can, that there is a God and that His Image lives and grows within the hearts of men!

Thanksgiving Cornucopia

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

High harvest fills the yawning bins
With shining golden grain.
For there has been enough of sun,
Enough of welcome rain.

Thanksgiving's cornucopia
With plenty glows afar,
The thrifty housewife's shelves are stacked
Wtih well-filled jar on jar.

So make the pumpkin pies and baste
The turkey gobbler brown,
And let Thanksgiving's song be sung
In city and in town.

But as you count the joys you see,
Material, give, too,
Thanks for the gifts the spirit knows—
For love and friendship, true.

Thanksgiving's cornucopia
Spills over; grateful be,
Do not forget the poor . . . the boon
Of generosity.

A Farmer's Diary

A Memory of Thanksgiving.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THEY sent me to hunt the table boards, that last time. I found four of them in the woodshed loft and two in the pantry. We stretched the walnut table full length, once more, and it almost filled the dining room. The family were all coming home for Thanksgiving.

The kitchen was a pleasant, busy place, with its corner cupboard of spacious shelves, a cook stove with an oven beneath and a rustic woodbox, full of wood, near by. Upon the old worn table which my parents used to hold the lamp, was spread a great outlay of food, of different kinds. Cranberry sauce, dried apples, thinly sliced cabbage, freshly cooked beets and pickled eggs, a roll of homemade butter and three plump chickens filled to bursting with stuffing and sewed with clean, white thread. A row of pumpkin pies.

As dinner time approached, the odors from that kitchen were tantalizing and delicious. The members of the family arrived and the house was filled with laughter and voices all talking at once. The table was loaded with food, and we all sat down.

Reverently, our father gave thanks for all things good—for plenty and to spare. We had a pleasant, social family day—just a typical Thanksgiving as it is celebrated wherever simple, good, country people get together in an unbroken family circle.

What other memory can take the place of days like this? What better heritage can children have than remembrance of such home Thanksgivings?

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The two biggest nights of the year in New York are New Year's Eve and the Saturday of the Army-Notre Dame football game. They charge $4.40 to see this game. That's too much money. Thousands are drawn into the city and the hotels and nightclubs do extraordinary business. For this occasion they ask holiday prices. The jump in tariff is about 50 cents on the dollar. A dinner which ordinarily costs $2, is anywhere from $3 to 4. It seems an excessive penalty for just a few whiffs of joi de vivre.

And unless you are a cadet at West Point, an undergraduate at Notre Dame, or a ranking major general in the Army, decent seats for the game are unavailable. The ones they allot invariably are behind the goal posts, and in Yankee Stadium you may as well be off in the next county. You can't see a thing.

* * *

BUT, you can't blame Army for this, or the Irish. No one sticks a gun in your ribs and makes you pay $4.40 for a ticket that in actual value is worth about 50 cents. It's still a free country. But in New York this game is tops, and the saps are plentiful. My reaction isn't one of anger. It's simply envy. I don't see how they get away with it but I'd certainly like to be in on the gravy.

New Year's Eve is something else. Reservations range from $5 to $25. That's $100 just for dinner if you've got a party of four at one of the exclusive places. There aren't many rooms with the $5 minimum. Most of them ride from $7.50 to $15. Your liquor, of course, is an added luxury. The reservation assures you only dinner and a grotesque paper hat. It includes confetti and perhaps a horn, and also the privilege of sharing with 500 others dance floor space intended for 50.

But, on New Year's Eve, who cares? You know before you go that it's going to cost you. Nobody is surprised. Nobody is indignant. And almost always everybody has a good time.

It is always wise to keep tab on what you order, but you won't have any trouble with padded checks at the accredited hotels. You usually get a pretty square deal at the hotels. But I must tell you that this does not always hold true at the nightclubs. Very frequently the waiters make out a separate ticket for you, adding five or ten dollars to what you actually owe. If you do not question it they pocket the surplus and turn in another ticket with the amount due.

* * *

THIS happened to me just the other night at a Broadway cabaret. The waiter didn't recognize me and the check he handed me was for $19. I reached into my pocket for a pencil instead of a pocketbook, and when the waiter saw me about to sign it he almost fainted. He grabbed the ticket, mumbled something about a mistake, and handed me another for $14. He was so badly flustered that I had to laugh. He had disappeared when I finally rose to go.

One thing more: If you are ever in doubt as to the justness of your check, do not attempt to slug the waiter. Just call for the manager. Waiters usually stick together and they have a bleak remedy for patrons who want to get tough. They take you outside and you aren't a very pretty sight when they get through with you.

ROMANCE, INC. + + +

READ THIS FIRST:

Sara Sue Davis, attractive young widow, with the aid of her mother-in-law, rents a cottage near the campus of Rice Institute, in Texas, in preparation for the launching of a unique business venture. Bob Towne, football end and campus hero, and some of the other students, are arrested by the new sign in front of the Davis cottage announcing a "Counsel In Romance." Sara Sue explains her Cottage Plan to a group of students and finds them greatly interested. Bob Towne even asks her for a date. Against her better judgment, Sara Sue goes dancing with Senior Towne. She enjoys the evening, but as he leaves her he kisses her impetuously.

CHAPTER 5

Sara Sue had breakfast late next morning. Cleopatra brought iced cantaloupe and toast and coffee and marmalade into her bedroom, pampering her more than she had expected.

"Thanks, Cleo. It's sweet of you."

"Yassum, tain't no trouble a tall. You needs yo' rest."

But she was up and going at 9 o'clock, and at 10 she was downtown. She had to deposit some money—not a great deal, although it seemed so—and purchase a few things. She knew the Rice students would be busy with registration for classes until noon. After that, maybe a few more would come to confer about her Cottage Plan.

She missed a guess there, though.

* * *

The Rice students were coming to her place by 11 o'clock, and when she returned at noon a dozen or more were in her big living room waiting for her and playing her phonograph

"I'm so sorry!" she apologized. "I didn't think anybody would come until after noon."

"You don't realize how well known you are, Mrs. Davis," a junior lad announced. "You've got something here."

"May freshmen join, too?" and obvious freshman asked.

"Surely," she smiled at him "Especially freshmen. They are likely to be loneliest of all, at first. Were you interested?"

He definitely was. He was a cute kid. A slender fellow surely not over 18, maybe 17.

He looked sheltered. His hands were pink. But his face was juvenile, too, and so it didn't matter, he just looked young. He said that his name was Worthington and that he did not like to be called Worthy. Which of course was a sad mistake, for everybody there instantly began calling him Worthy. Everyone, that is, except Sara Sue. Last name, please? Gurley.

Worthington Gurley, you see, is aristocratic. Worthy Gurley is—well, funny. The upperclassmen discovered that instantly. Sophomores made meat of it, as they do of all freshmen, and one fertile-brained soph was orating an extemporaneous limerick:

"There was a young man named Gurley,
Hatched from a shell so pearly,
Worthy was he.
As pink as could be—
He was hatched a great deal too early."

The upperclassmen all guffawed and applauded, but Sara Sue was careful to smile only at them.

"Come into my private office, Worthington, and we can talk there," she invited. "The poetry out here is terrible. And the manners worse."

Worthy Gurley signed up. Blessed with abundant money, this impressionable freshman paid $27, a full nine months in advance.

"Maybe you'd better be cautious," Sara Sut counseled him. "You might—well, you might bust out. Rice has very high scholastic standing, and—"

"Oh, no, I was valedictorian at home."

O. K. Fine!" She took his money and smiled at him.

* * *

That was the second time she had smiled directly at him. And when Sara Sue Davis smiled directly at anybody twice, she made an indelible impression. Mr. Worthington Gurley swallowed hard, blushed and departed

When the crowd dispersed for lunch, one man remained at Sara Sue's door. She didn't quite catch his name when he mentioned it, but she didn't want to offend and so didn't ask it again. They sat on her sofa to talk. She didn't think he was a student. He was youngish, but not quite that young. Still, he might be a graduate student, working for his Ph. D.

"I just want to ask one little favor, please, Mrs. Davis," the gentleman said. He smiled nicely. Sara Sue liked him.

"Yes, surely."

"We, ah, Rice won a football championship last year. We may not repeat, but we want to do the best we can this fall. We want to maintain a fighting, efficient team. Don't we?"

"Yes. Yes, indeed!" Sara Sue was wondering about him now.

"Thanks. I knew you would say that. I could tell by your manner. I knew your husband, too Fine boy. He wouldn't have chosen anything but a fine girl. Well many thanks again. I'll be going"

He arose, and started to leave Sara Sue was sadly confused.

"But the favor, Mr.—— I'm sorry, I didn't quite understand your name when you came in."

"Britt Coach Britt."

They looked at each other seriously for a long moment. Then both suddenly smiled

"I understand. Bob told you about the accident last night?"

Coach Britt nodded.

"I can—control things, Coach. And I will."

"You don't know Bob Towne, I'm afraid. He moves fast. And gets what he goes after. He's in love with you. He's telling everybody. He's the kind to shout it from the housetops"

"There is still no cause for worry, Coach"

"You are a very attractive girl. And young."

"Thank you. But, I'm not in love with Bob. And since you ask it, I shall certainly not go out with him again.

Coach Britt looked aghast.

"But I did not ask that! No! That would be worst of all, Mrs. Davis. If one of my lads is in love, or imagines he is, don't you see how a broken heart would upset him? He would be too upset to play football well!"

"Are you, then—listen, Coach Britt. I'm making a business of my Counsel in Romance, remember. See my sign out there? The fee will be $3 a month, please! Even though it's somebody else's romance you are interested in!"

They laughed together at that. They talked a bit more, and Sara Sue promised, in all seriousness, to do what she could to keep Bob Towne's emotions on an even keel.

When the coach had gone, she grabbed a bite of lunch, thinking the while. Business, she realized, was stacking up on her; business details. But it certainly was interesting.

* * *

The callers she had after 1 o'clock almost overwhelmed her. even though a drizzle of rain had begun. Her afternoon seemed like one long happy house party, but her little desk was gathering a pile of bills and checks, too. All of the students had money on the opening week of school, and lest they go broke later, most of them paid not one, but several months in advance.

By 5 p. m., though, the rain seemed to take offense at the fact that people were ignoring it. Instead of just pouring and roaring, it began snorting and snatching.

"Winter comin' early," Calculus Jones ventured, from his kitchen corner where he watched his wife cook.

When the students all departed for their various dinners, Sara Sue had a half hour alone. It was time to think. She was delighted with the results of her planning. At the rate customers were signing, she would have her 100 before the week was over.

Bob Towne phoned at 6 o'clock saying he would call for her promptly at 8. It took 15 minutes of her best conversation to tell him no.

At 7 p. m. the front door seemed to explode open, and a sou-wester-ed lad dripped in.

"Worthington!" Sara Sue was astonished. "You'll drown!"

He was far from drowning, though. He had a goal. His goal was to take Sara Sue to a dinner, a theater, a movie, a night club, any or all four. He had his car. He pleaded. He looked like somebody's little brother. It was hard to tell him no; the process took half an hour.

* * *

Nobody else dared the rainstorm until 9:30, when an insistent honking brought Sara Sue to her front porch. A blue car stood at her curb, 30 feet away. The driver, a woman, honked again.

Sara Sue couldn't understand why the caller didn't come in. Still, hospitality is hospitality. There must be some good reason. She hastened to get her coat, throwing it carelesly over head and all because she expected to dart right into come friend's car and talk a moment. The motor was still purring.

But the driver did not open a door. Instead, she lowered a window and held the door closed A stench of alcohol struck Sara Sue.

"Just wanted to warn you, my darling, that you've bitten off more than you can chew!" The driver mouthed at her contemptuously.

In a rush then the window closed and the car rolled away, leaving Sara Sue Davis, Inc, standing there appalled.

GIVES SECOND REVIEW BEFORE ASSOCIATION

Mrs. W. E. Benninghoff, Cleveland, Speaks on "My Son, My Son," at Meeting at First Congregational Church.

FOR the second selection of the series of three book reviews being given by Mrs. W. E. Benninghoff, Cleveland, under the auspices of the Women's Association of the First Congregational church, "My Son, My Son," by Howard Spring, an English writer, was given yesterday afternoon in the church auditorium before a group of nearly 300 women.

Telling first briefly of the author, Mrs. Benninghoff gave a comprehensive and detailed report of this first novel by Spring, who for 20 years was a book reviewer. She pointed out at the beginning of her talk that the author points the moral of the book on every page.

Not unusual in its chronological method of telling, the book is different because of its polish and charm. Throughout the story the reader is impressed with two things, Mrs. Benninghoff indicated. First with the fact that the author is trying to prove to people that it is unwise to give too much to children, and secondly that the last war had a decidedly bad effect on individual personality and character.

The story, which traces the lives of two boys, deals with the period in English history just before and including the World war. Oliver Essex is the principal character, and most of the plot centers around him, although the others are strong and well-drawn.

Most dramatic and moving is the feeling of William Essex, a man of humble beginnings, for his only son. The son, Oliver, unfortunately, is not worthy of his father's affection, and the tale, told by Mrs. Benninghoff, shows this as it unfolds.

The guest reviewer, who appeared last month in a review of "The Importance of Living" by Lin Yutang, was introduced by Miss Helen Hurst, president of the association. She will give the final review in the series on Feb. 15 at 2 p. m. Her selection is "Benjamin Franklin" by Carl Van-Doren.

The hostess last night were Mrs. Carl Rupp, Miss Helen Crawl and Miss Betty Loch. The party was at the Rupp home on Euclid avenue. Games were played, and the prize winners were Miss Helen Clapper and Mrs. Jack Yoha. They presented their gifts, along with the shower and hostess gifts, to the honoree.

Luncheon was served at a long table decorated with lighter tapers and a centerpiece of pink and white chrysanthemums, roses and sweet peas. Individual favors carried out the color scheme.

WHY FALSE TEETH WEARERS HAVE BAD BREATH
Millions Suffer Without Knowing!
You can't notice any odor from your plate or bridge—but others can! Dentists call this odor "denture breath" and it's serious. It comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum is almost invisible—but it can make your breath so bad that friends shudder. It can breed decay-bacteria that infect your other teeth, actually hurt your health and spoil your pleasure.
Ordinary brushing can't get this scum off plate or bridge—can't protect you against "denture breath." But just try Polident! Polident not only cleans—it actually purifies plates and bridges without brushing. It gets every bit of scum, tarnish, stain and odor—dissolves it away and leaves your plate sweet and clean as new.
Your breath will be fresher, your mouth feel cleaner—and your plate last longer and look better. Polident is approved by dental authorities. Good Housekeeping and tens of thousands of delighted users. Long-lasting can costs only 30¢ at any drug store.
POLIDENT CLEANS, PURIFIES LIKE MAGIC
Add a little Polident powder to ½ glass water. Stir. Then put in plate or bridge for 10 to 15 minutes—Rinse — and it's sweet and purified — ready to use!

Prevents "Denture Breath"

Fat Girl Laughs and Grows Slim
Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Roiling Exercises.
Here's a way that works hand in hand with Nature in getting rid of ugly fat due to an internal deficiency. Just eat sensibly and take 4 Marmola Prescription Tablets a day, according to the directions, until you have lost enough fat — then stop.
Marmola Prescription Tablets have been sold to the public for more than thirty years. More than twenty million boxes have been distributed during that period.
Marmola is not intended as a cure-all for all ailments. This advertisement is intended only for fat persons who are normal and healthy otherwise and whose fatness is caused by hypo-thyroidism with accompanying subnormal metabolic rates. No other representation is made as to this treatment except under these conditions and according to the dosage as recommended.
We do not make any diagnosis as that is the function of your physician, who must be consulted for that purpose. The complete formula is included in every package. Get a box of Marmola today from your druggist.
